SATURDAY IS DERBY DAY

THE DAY OF ALL DAYS AT THE RACES

How is your one best bet? Are you prepared for it with a little knowledge of the inside track? Keeping one's poise is a requisite in all games of skill. The flustered one is left at the post. Incidentally, —a glass of G. H. Mumm and Co.'s "Extra Dry" or "Selected Brut" may help you. Try one at any bar or hotel before you set out for the Willows. It will assuredly help you pick the winner and enjoy the day. A good glass of champagne helps maintain that peace and good-will which marks the winning temperament. But remember "Mumm's" the word when you want the best.

YOUNG WOMAN DONE TO DEATH

New York Police Are Furnished
Another Murder Mystery to Unravel

BODY FOUND PACKED IN SMALL TRUNK

Indications Point to Missionary
Being Victim of Chinaman

New York, June 18.—Packed in a steamer trunk tied with ropes and left in a stuffy little room in a house occupied principally by Chinese, the body of a young woman was discovered tonight. All indications are that the murder was caused by strangulation, and while the body had not been identified late tonight the police think it may prove to be that of a young woman missionary.

The murder, following closely on the recent finding of the dismembered body of a man on the east side, gives the New York police two sordid mysteries to work upon. The efforts of the police tonight were being directed to an attempt to establish the identity of the young woman, and in their investigations they found H. C. Barnett, who is interested in the Americanization of the Chinese. He gave the police a valuable clue in that he described a "Chinaman" who had formerly occupied the room where the body was found. While there is no direct evidence to connect the Chinaman with the murder, the fact that he was the last occupant will make him a valuable witness at least. Paul Sigel, a son of General Franz Sigel of civil war fame, was also summoned to police headquarters, as his daughter has been missing for more than a week and the police are anxious for him to view the body. Barnett said that he had seen a young white woman by sight only who had been interested in work among the Chinese, and he was inclined to think that she was Miss Sigel, although he was not sure of this.

Done by Convert.

With this partly coincidental information, although vague and uncertain, the police began their investigations. The house in which the body was found is in Eighth avenue, at 728, in the Tenderloin district. Sung Lung, the proprietor, brought about the revelation of the crime. He noted a peculiar odor and fearing that someone had committed suicide, notified the police. They ascended the floor and entered a small room and pried open a steamer trunk. There lay the body, cramped and partly decomposed, with a rope wound tightly about the breast, and also tied about the knees and arms. The body was covered with blood and the clothing was torn, indicating that there had been a struggle.

The man who had occupied the room had evidently left hastily, for there has been no effort to remove anything. He was evidently a convert to Christianity, for there were three bibles and prayer books containing names written in both English and Chinese, which gave the information that the former occupant was known in English as William H. Lion and in Chinese as Leong Loo Lin. Scrawled in fairly good English, on a card, was an unsigned note, which read: "I hope you do not get mad at me because all the trouble came from me. Hope some day the happiness come to us both."

There was great excitement among the Chinese in the vicinity when the murder was discovered, but with exception of the proprietor they could not be induced to view the body. It had been wrapped in a blue blanket. The outer clothing was removed. The feet were bare. Dragging the trunk out into a hall, detectives began a more minute inspection. Decomposition had progressed so far that except for the whiteness of the feet it would have been difficult to ascertain whether it was the body of a white woman. Soon after Mr. Sigel had been notified, the body was removed to the morgue.

Turning their attention again to the room the officers found a butcher's cleaver, which gave further color to the murder theory, lying out by the bloody corpse. The house where the trunk was found is a three-story building used mainly as a chop suey restaurant. The upper floors are rented to Chinamen.

Possibly the Victim

Paul Sigel late tonight went to the Eighth avenue house and examined the clothing the murdered woman wore. He was, however, unable to identify any of the things as having belonged to his missing daughter, Elsie.

A letter with the initials "E.C.S." or "P.C.S." the letters being worn and hard to distinguish, were shown to Mr. Sigel, but he said he could not identify it, though he knew his daughter wore a locket when he last saw her. He suggested that the police send the trunk to his wife, who lives in the Bronx, for identification.

According to Paul Sigel, his daughter disappeared from home on June 10. Two days later the family got word from her in Washington, saying she was safe and would be home the following Monday (June 14). Nothing, the father said, had been heard from her since. He gave her age as twenty years.

The locket was sent to the mother of the missing girl for examination. A number of letters which the police expect will throw light on the case were found in the room where the body was discovered. One written in English, addressed to the Chinaman who had occupied the room, but which was unsigned, warned him that if he did not stop paying attention to "Elsie Sigel" he would meet a terrible fate. The other letters found were written by a girl who signed herself "Elsie." According to the police, the missives were written in terms of endearment. A silver spangled bracelet upon which were the initials "E.C.S." was found in a dresser in the room.

Some text books, a spell book and a geography owned by the missing Chinaman were found to contain the name "Elsie," such as a person learning to write might make. A plain envelope addressed to Miss Elsie Sigel, 209 Wadsworth avenue, New York city, but empty, was also found in the room. A man who described himself as Jos. K. Lang, but who is a Chinaman, called at the Eighth avenue house quite unexpectedly during the night. He said he had called to see his cousin, who proved to be the missing Chinaman who occupied the room in which the trunk was found. Lang said his cousin came from Philadelphia about five months ago. Lang said he saw his cousin, Elsie Sigel and her father and mother at a performance at the Chinese theatre three weeks ago.

Probably Miss Sigel

New York, June 19.—Elizabeth Sigel, daughter of Paul Sigel, of this city, and granddaughter of the illustrious Franz Sigel, the German warrior who enlisted his services with the Union army during the Civil war, is, according to all indications tonight, the victim of one of the most sordid murders in the history of New York. If she is not the victim the police are confronted with a remarkable series of coincidental events.

Mrs. Paul Sigel at 1:30 a.m., when shown the jewelry found in the trunk containing the body of the murdered girl, in the Chinese rooming house in Eighth avenue, identified it as that worn by her daughter Elsie. A woman settlement worker in the meantime had identified the underwear as that worn by the girl.

Quebec Official Dies Suddenly

FRANCE FACES LARGE DEFICIT

New Taxes Proposed by Finance Minister to Make Up Shortage

Paris, June 18.—The budget for 1910 was introduced in the Chamber of Deputies today by Finance Minister Cailhau, and showed a deficit of $21,000,000. Nine millions of this is charged to the budget of 1911. The minister recommends that the remaining $12,000,000 be raised by a new tax of a cent a litre on the petroleum used in automobiles, a tax on dogs, administrative rearrangement and a stricter enforcement of the taxes on colonial obligations and mines, and a new tax in connection with the inheritance of property. The minister explained that it was planned to levy this tax on the capital revealed by inheritance, thus paying the way to the institution of a more important progressive tax on capital, by which the government hopes to raise the $20,000,000 of $24,000,000 necessary to cover the workmen's pensions now being discussed by parliament.

Miss White had an arm broken in the collision.

PLATFORMS NOT BINDING

Some Senators Accused of Voting Against Convention
Declarations

TARIFF QUESTIONS
MIX UP PARTIES

Mr. Brown's Free Paper
Amendment Defeated by Large Majority

Washington, June 18.—Today's discussion of the tariff in the senate was confined largely to the Democratic side, and while technically based upon the tariff had more pertinent reference to the Democratic national platform. The immediate subject of debate was an interview with former Representative John E. Lamb of Indiana in which that gentleman was represented as criticizing some of the Democratic senators who had not cast their votes on some of the schedules in accordance with the declarations of the Denver platform.

Those present who were referred to were Senator Daniel of Virginia and Simmons of North Carolina, and each made response to the criticism. Senator Bailey took occasion also to reiterate his independence of special declarations by the party, and Mr. Hughes, the new senator from Colorado, was ultimately drawn into the discussion. Mr. Bailey had said that the Denver platform had been the work of one man, Mr. Hughes entered upon a defense of Mr. Bryan and of the platform. His remarks caused Mr. Bailey to take the floor and in defending his position he undertook to show that by his vote for a duty on lead ore Mr. Hughes had himself not been entirely controlled by the official utterances of his party. It made reference to "trusts" and "masters" which in turn roused Mr. Hughes, and he responded with much feeling, declaring that he was under no outside influence and under no obligation to any trust. Mr. Bailey disavowed any intention of making such intimation and the incident was closed.

During the course of his remarks Senator Hughes took occasion to oppose the policy of attempting to impose an income tax by the roundabout way of a constitutional amendment. He declared his conviction that it was now competent for congress to impose an income tax under present authority and he pointed out that the former income tax law was not still on the statute books as had been stated by the president, but that it had expired by its own limitations nine years ago.

Previous to the discussion a vote had been taken on Senator Brown's amendment providing for the free importation of print paper, and it was defeated by a vote of 23 to 52, only four republicans voting for it.

Senator Gallinger occupied the earlier hours with a speech in support of the finance committee rates on paper and wood pulp, declaring that Canada had a vast advantage in the cost of labor over the United States in production of paper. He urged sharp competition in United States in the production of paper as the reason why the price of paper had been kept down.

Mr. Delorimer, the newly elected senator from Illinois, was sworn in and took his seat during the day. Mr. Delorimer cast his first vote against free paper.

FATAL ASCENT WITH BALLOON

Russian Court Chamberlain
Killed and His Wife Fatally Injured

St. Petersburg, June 18.—Court Chamberlain Paltitzin was killed, his wife fatally injured and two other persons received severe injuries in a balloon accident here today.

The balloon, belonging to the army department, in which four officers had a similar misfortune a year ago, ascended today from the military balloon park in charge of Captain Korts. In the basket with him were Court Chamberlain Paltitzin and his wife and Count Restoffoff, director of the private chancellery of Empress Alexandra.

The gas bag had drifted across the city at an altitude of a little less than a mile, and when just above the outskirts Count Restoffoff, by mistake, pulled the rip cord. As the gas escaped from the envelope the balloon rapidly fell to the ground, the car falling in the garden of a country house.

Paltitzin was killed and his wife suffered terrible injuries. Capt. Korts escaped with a broken leg and Count Restoffoff with a severe contusion.

With the exception of Captain Korts, all the occupants of the car were inexperienced members of the newly-formed Russian Aero Club.

London, June 18.—A special despatch from St. Petersburg says that Paltitzin, his wife and Count Restoffoff all were killed in the balloon accident.

Canadian Northern at Ottawa

Ottawa, June 18.—The minister of railways today approved of the plans of the Canadian Northern to enter the city of Ottawa.

Fire at Chapleau
Pembroke, Ont., June 18.—Eight buildings at Chapleau, Ont., were destroyed by fire this morning. The loss is between $7,000 and $8,500.

Montreal Financier Dead
Montreal, June 18.—A. T. Paterson, senior director of the Bank of Montreal, manager of the Phoenix Assurance company of London, England, and prominent in a number of financial institutions, is dead. He was born in Ayrshire, Scotland, in 1833.

St. John Gets Grant
Ottawa, June 18.—An order in council has been passed giving to St. John, N. B., a grant of $50,000 in aid of the national exposition to be held in that city next year. Chatham and Moncton were also after the grant, but it had been decided to give it to St. John. Regina will get it in 1911.

Trail Ferryman Drowned
Nelson, B. C., June 18.—Andrew H. Thompson, ferryman over the Columbia river at Trail, was knocked off his boat yesterday by the revolving wire gear and drowned while conveying a load of passengers across the stream. Deceased was 55 years old and leaves a family of four children. The high water in the river caused the accident.

Montreal's Civic Inquiry
Montreal, June 18.—Some rather sensational evidence was given at the royal commission enquiry this afternoon by J. O. Munday, one of the witnesses. Munday is alleged to have been a middleman whose business it was to secure places for applicants for the fire brigade. Munday, on the witness stand today said that he had received $500, which he had paid to the late Alderman Marsolais, who was a member of the fire committee. Witnesses, under a severe cross examination, said he would not swear that he had never sent or paid money to ex-Chief Benoit for promotions. He could not tell the amounts, but said that cash had always been sent.

TELKWA VALLEY COAL RESOURCES

Eastern Syndicate Contemplating Development of Many Claims

Vancouver, June 18.—"I am going north to inspect 20,000 acres of coal lands in the Telkwa valley, secured several years ago by a Toronto and Hamilton syndicate in which I am interested," said S. Barker, M.P., of Hamilton, Ont., today.

"The holdings have already been examined by experts and declared to possess great possibilities. Now that railway facilities are to be provided by the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, the syndicate will probably soon lay out a plan of development. Many of the seams are of workable size, and a large tonnage is assured. The coal basin is about 20 miles from the main line of the railway. It is probable that a branch will be built into the Telkwa, as the railway company owns coal claims in the same region. We have already prospected the various seams."

Mr. Barker went north on the steamer Camosun.

POLICE CHIEFS

Major Sylvester, of Washington, Re-elected President—Paper by Mr.
Grassett, of Toronto

Buffalo, June 18.—At today's session of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Major Richard Sylvester, of Washington, and Harvey C. Carr, of Grand Rapids, Mich., were re-elected president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Michael Ragan, chief of police of this city, was elected first vice-president and James McSweeney, of South Bend, was elected second vice-president.

Chief Haeger, of Louisville, chairman of the committee on resolutions, which prepared a resolution favorable to the practice of photographing prisoners before conviction, announced that it had been decided to withhold it from the present convention in view of the action of the New York state court of appeals in sustaining the conviction of Capt. Kuehne, of Brooklyn.

A resolution was unanimously adopted referring to the assassination of Lt. Petrosini, stating that the murder was evidently committed by members of the Mafia and urging that every chief in the association put forward his best efforts to exterminate such criminals.

Among the papers read at today's session was one by Col. H. J. Grassett, of Toronto, in which he characterized as unjustified allusions to the use of "sweating" by the police. "Most persons don't know the difference between a sweat box and a soap box," said he. "Sweating prisoners does not compare with the brutal treatment of witnesses by lawyers on cross-examination. The sweat box is not as bad as the witness box is for most witnesses for the prosecution. Those lawyers who are most vociferous in complaints against the sweat box are usually the most savage in their treatment of citizens in the witness box."

Col. Grassett was unable to be present today, and his paper was read by Deputy Chief William Stark, of Toronto.

Chicago was selected as the next meeting place of the association.

Montreal Y.M.C.A. Fund

Montreal, June 18.—D. Lorne McGibbon gave ten thousand dollars to the Y.M.C.A. fund today, and the total now reaches some $240,000, with two more days to bring the amount up to $300,000.

Steamer Aground

Quebec, June 18.—Steamer Campana, of the Quebec Steamship company, plying between Montreal and the Maritime Provinces, is ashore at St. Valer. She is resting easy and it is expected the vessel will be floated without much difficulty.

GOOD RESULTS ARE EXPECTED

German Foreign Secretary's Opinion on Meeting of Monarchs

FRIENDLY FEELING BETWEEN COUNTRIES

No Harm Likely to Follow Firing on British Steamer
Woodburn

Berlin, June 18.—The Wolff bureau, the official German news-gathering agency, has received a wireless despatch from its representative accompanying Emperor William, giving an interview he had with an official, evidently Foreign Secretary Von Schoen, on the German view of the results of the meeting of the monarchs.

The meeting, the official said, "was new proof of the traditional hearty friendship between the ruling houses of Germany and Russia. The toasts exchanged are a pledge for a continuation of the good relations between the two countries. Various pending political questions were touched upon in the conferences held by the statesmen accompanying their majesties, the result showing that no conflicting views on them existed. Both sides sincerely wish for a continuance of the friendly feeling, and to further cement the good relations that now exist between the two countries. It was also recognized that the international agreements in which Germany and Russia are engaged by no means conflicted with those friendly relations. Both countries are at one in the purpose of a peaceful solution of every political question that may arise."

Kaiser Goes Home

Fridrichshamm, Fmland, June 18.—The German imperial yacht Hohenzollern, with Emperor William on board, steamed away in the direction of Dantzig this afternoon. She was escorted by a cruiser and exchanged the customary salutes with the Russian garrison as she left Pitkips. Emperor Nicholas had luncheon with Emperor William on board the yacht at noon. No formal toasts were proposed, but the farewells between the two rulers were of the heartiest nature. The weather during the visit has been ideal for a meeting at sea. Premier Stolypin, Foreign Minister Iswolsky, and the German Ambassador to Russia, Count Von Purnale, returned to St. Petersburg this afternoon. Emperor Nicholas will remain at Pitkips.

Woodburn Incident

St. Petersburg, June 18.—The British embassy here has received a report concerning the firing upon the British steamer Woodburn on Wednesday night by a vessel of the Russian squadron, which was patrolling the vicinity of Pitkips bay, where Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William were to meet the following day. The report came from the British Vice-Consul at Viborg, whom the embassy had asked for an explanation of the incident. Its contents have not been made public. The belief that any grave developments would follow the affair has been excluded, however, as it evidently was the result of some one's blunder and for which both sides are willing to express regret.

Like Dogger Bank Affair

Viborg, June 18.—According to the Finnish pilot who was aboard the Woodburn, the vessel was proceeding slowly in the proper channel and was half way down the line when suddenly a torpedo boat appeared almost under her bows. To avoid a collision the Woodburn backed off, and in so doing swung around until her bow pointed toward the Imperial yacht Standart, which lay a half mile distant. A shout of warning came from the torpedo boat and almost immediately blank shots were fired. A torpedo boat destroyer lying close by then opened fire with shells, seven shots being fired.

NO SORDID TIE

Sentiment, Not Business Considerations, Basis for Imperial Relationship

Manchester, June 18.—The delegates to the imperial press conference were entertained here last night at dinner by the directors of the Manchester ship canal.

J. S. Brierley, of Montreal, proposed the toast to the Port of Manchester, recalling the fact that an ancestor of his left Manchester 97 years ago. It was not matters of business, he said, but bonds of friendship that drew them to England. Never let it be supposed that their close connection depended on sordid conditions. The feeling for the mother country was based on their common love of liberty and on sentimental affections.

It had frequently been said that trade followed the flag, but he did not know that affection and sentiment inevitably followed trade. He instanced the great trade between Canada and the American continent and the trade between Great Britain and Germany, and if this had produced any great affection between these countries the fact had escaped his observation.

Premier Ward Leaves for London

Wellington, N. Z., June 18.—Sir Joseph Ward, premier of New Zealand, sailed today for London in connection with the imperial defence conference, which meets next month. A huge crowd assembled. There was some cheering and some hooting as the steamer left port, the hooting being due to dissatisfaction over the prorogation of parliament.

DENIES TRUTH OF AFFIDAVIT

Commissioner Gregory Hears Shultz's Charges Against Capt. J. Gaudin

The commissioner appointed by the Dominion government to inquire into the charges made by ex-employees of the local marine department against Captain J. Gaudin, the agent here, resumed his sittings yesterday afternoon at the marine department offices, three hours being spent in examining C. A. Shultz, a laborer, who alleged that Captain Gaudin had misappropriated material from the department.

In cross-examination it developed that Shultz had been in the employ of the department as a day laborer from time to time during the years 1901-02. The work done by him was of a varied character, including wharf repairing, building platforms for buoys, sealing and painting buoys, etc. In 1905 a permanent man was appointed to this job, and Shultz lost the work. He then went to Captain Gaudin and told him he knew a lot of things that were going on in the local department.

Commissioner Gregory—"Do you mean on crooked lines?" Shultz—"Yes. Different men had told me different things." "Where are the men who told you?" "I don't know."

"Did you tell this to Captain Gaudin?" "Yes, and I told him that I would lay information against him." "How long were you employed by the marine department?" "Some three years."

"You say that in connection with some receipts for pay you were required to sign blanks? When was this?"

The Chicken House.

"When I built a chicken house at Captain Gaudin's residence."

"When did this happen?"

"In 1902. Also on three other occasions, and each time I signed three blank sheets of paper. I signed the first blanks when I was working on the chicken house, and the second when engaged on the Fraser river bell buoy. I cannot recollect when I signed the third lot, but I thought that they were all in receipt for payments."

"How did you come to make this chicken house?"

"Captain Gaudin told me to come to the house, as he had some work for me."

"Was it for a period of ten days that you were employed?"

"Yes."

"What other work did you do during the same month?"

"I was spraying trees for Captain Gaudin."

"You say that the marine department paid you for the work you did on the chicken house and also for spraying the trees?"

"By cash or by cheque?"

"Sometimes one, and sometimes the other. I don't remember which it was in connection with the chicken hatch."

"Do you mean to say that on each of the three occasions that you signed in blanks that you were doing work for Captain Gaudin?"

"Yes."

"I don't think you quite understand me, do you? On the second occasion of signing blanks, who were you working for?"

"The marine department."

"Now listen to me: In the affidavit in which you laid this information you say that you invariably signed blanks. Do you know the meaning of the word 'invariably'?"

Shultz did not reply.

"Then you said that the captain ordered you to get a couple of coal buckets belonging to the department and send them to a certain store in town?"

"Yes."

"Then you assisted Captain Gaudin to steal?"

"I was under his orders."

"Do you think an employee may commit a crime if ordered to do so?"

"Yes, sir."

"How do you know the coal buckets went to Captain Gaudin?"

"I saw them there when working at the house."

"Now you have something to tell us about stove pipe lengths being taken away from the department?"

The Coal Matter.

"A coal cart carried them away along with coal from the Quadra."

"Where was the cart going?"

"To Captain Gaudin's."

"Do you know the names of the crew who helped to load the coal on to the cart?"

"Jack Bourke and Mackintosh."

"What year was this in?"

"Every year."

"Who was the captain of the ship during the time you allude to?"

"Captain Wallbran."

"Was it broad daylight when the coal was taken from the ship?"

"Yes."

"You thought that Captain Gaudin was stealing pipe lengths?"

"Yes."

"And you were helping him?"

"Yes."

"Now you have something to tell us about window sashes?"

"Yes."

"The captain told you to take these away from the department?"

"Yes."

"In the same week as I took the pipe lengths, and coal buckets?"

"Was your statement in the affidavit read to you before you signed it?"

"Yes."

"Well read this paragraph."

Shultz here read from the affidavit that it was the invariable practice of the department to make him sign blank forms in receipt for payments.

"That will do," said the commissioner.

F. Peters, K. C., who is conducting the case for Captain Gaudin, then took up the cross-examination of the witness.

Mr. Peters—"Do you know what this affidavit, or declaration of yours means?"

Shultz—"That I tell the truth."

"The whole truth?"

"Yes."

"And nothing but the truth?"

"Yes."

"When did you start work for the marine department?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you get a cheque on August 21, 1901?"

"I don't recollect."

"What was the first work you did?"

"Building the wharf extension."

"Did you keep an account of the work you did?"

"Yes, I kept an account in a book."

"What did you put into this about the chicken house you built?"

"I put that I had done ten days' work for Captain Gaudin."

"And you say that this book was destroyed?"

"Yes."

"Where did you keep it?"

"In a drawer wrapped up in a table cloth."

"When your house was burned was the table saved?"

"Yes."

"And the drawer?"

"Yes."

"And the tablecloth?"

"Yes."

"Then the book was not destroyed?"

"Yes; by chemicals."

"Oh!"

"Now you said that you had sprayed trees?"

"Yes."

"I got paid by the marine department?"

"Yes."

"For spraying trees?"

"No, I never got paid for spraying trees, which I did for three years."

Prompt Witness

At this point Mr. Peters noticed that Captain Johnston, the witness of the preceding day, kept tapping Shultz on the shoulder. He complained that the replies were being prompted and Johnston was ordered to remove himself to another corner of the room.

Vouchers accounting for all the moneys paid by the marine department to Shultz during 1902 and 1903 were then produced by Captain A. J. Dallain, the book-keeper of the department. Shultz denied that any of these had been signed in blank.

"Now, will you swear," said Mr. Peters, "that you got one dollar more from the marine department than is shown in these vouchers?"

"I cannot remember," said the witness.

"None of these were signed in blank?"

"No."

"How much did you get for spraying the trees?"

"I got $20 in cash for doing the chicken house. That was the only time I was paid in cash."

"Do you mean to say that the men were paid by draft on every occasion except this once? Now, be careful, for this is not the case."

"Yes."

"Then if you were paid by cheque, the cheques would be still alive?"

"Yes, I suppose so; in the bank."

"And you say that Capt. Gaudin stole coal buckets, and that you helped him?"

"Well, I was under his orders."

"And those buckets were sent to a store. What store?"

"Nodak's, on Johnson street."

"That store is not in existence now?"

"No."

"Who did you give them to?"

"Mr. Nodak."

"What did you say?"

"Nothing."

"Do you mean to say that you said nothing?"

"Yes, I told Mr. Nodak that these were for Capt. Gaudin."

"Who saw you pitch the marine department labels off these buckets, and throw them overboard?"

"No one."

"You took the two buckets and two window sashes at the same time and handed them into this store. Is that true?"

"Yes."

"Now listen to what your affidavit says."

Denies Truth of Affidavit

On being produced this showed that the buckets and the window sashes had been taken to the store at different times.

"How did you induce you to make this affidavit?"

"I cannot say."

"So this affidavit is not true?"

"No."

"You say that about the same time some stove pipe lengths were also sent from the department to Captain Gaudin's house?"

"Yes."

"And you saw coal being taken from the Quadra?"

"Yes."

"How did you know that this coal was going to Captain Gaudin's?"

"The crew of the Quadra said so."

"Do you keep any memorandum of the pipes and coal buckets in your book?"

"Yes."

"Why?"

"Captain Owens told me to say nothing but to make notes."

"I saw them there when working at the house."

"And Captain Owens is dead?"

"Yes."

"Who else knew about the coal being taken?"

"Mate Macdonald of the Quadra."

"Did he hear you talking of it?"

"I could not swear."

"Bourke and Mackintosh are the only two others in town who heard you telling the crew of the Quadra in the 'castle about the things that were going on?"

"I think so."

"This concluded Mr. Peter's cross examination and Commissioner Gregory resumed."

"At the time you were paid for the chicken house did you receive exactly $20?"

"Yes."

"Is there a receipt on blank paper. Was it on paper like this that you signed?"

"Something like it."

"Among these vouchers here is the only receipt for $20. Was this the one for the chicken house?"

"No."

"Do you remember if you got paid for the spraying?"

"Yes."

"And you sprayed on three different occasions in different years?"

"Yes."

Mr. Peters here drew attention to the fact that during April, 1902, one of the years in which Shultz had said he had done the spraying work, he had got no pay at all.

Captain A. J. Dallain, bookkeeper of the marine department, was the next witness sworn.

The Vouchers.

Commissioner Gregory—"Have you examined the vouchers shown to Shultz?"

Captain Dallain—"Yes."

"And there are no others in those years?"

"No."

"Was any payment made to Shultz in August, 1901?"

"Yes, a payment made by Captain Gaudin. There was no charge made against the department. I have that cheque."

"There are no vouchers in this office of any other payments to Shultz?"

"No. Not that we can trace."

Captain Gaudin's cheque paid to Shultz in August 1901, was produced, signed "Captain Gaudin, agent of marine department."

Commissioner Gregory—"You told me this was from Captain Gaudin's private account?"

"That was my impression, since there was no voucher for it in the office."

"But this is evidently from the department's account."

Captain Gaudin interposed and said it was.

Commissioner Gregory—"Where is the first entry of such a cheque made?"

Captain Dallain—"In the statement."

"Show me the statement of August, 1901?"

This was produced but showed no mention of the cheque in question.

Captain Gaudin here explained that in 1901 the amount of money allowed by Ottawa for the petty expense account was only $300. Vouchers for the amounts expended were sent back to Ottawa and then the marine department forwarded each year the sum of $300. The books were kept at Ottawa, and hence the difficulty of keeping track of every item.

Mr. Peters pointed out that no matter what Captain Gaudin did out of the petty cash account in 1901 he only got credit for $300 at the end of the year. The fact that a thorough set of books were not kept here was due to the slipshod methods of the marine department.

Commissioner Gregory said that he was satisfied with the explanation.

Messrs. Bourke, Mackintosh and Nodak, who are mentioned in the foregoing evidence will be summoned as witnesses tomorrow if they can be found in the city. At 5:15 p. m. the commission adjourned until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

WON'T ATTEMPT EXPROPRIATION

Plan to Widen Esquimalt Road Dropped—Lime Street to Remain Untouched

As a result of the threatened legal tangle between the city and the Silver Spring Brewing company over the expropriation of that portion of the property of the company jutting into the Esquimalt road the city council will, after having passed a bylaw providing that in return for the piece of Esquimalt road the city should temporarily give the company 30 feet of Lime street to the rear of the proposed new brewery building, now rescind that measure. Instead the city will not only drop expropriation proceedings for the piece of property belonging to the company on the south side of Esquimalt road but will also not proceed with the expropriation proceedings on the opposite side of the road.

The above decision was arrived at at last night's meeting of the streets, bridges and sewers committee, following the reading of a communication from the city solicitor who stated that the company's solicitors object to the wording of the bylaw providing for the exchange of property and that unless the restrictions insisted upon by the city in the granting of the Lime street piece is not removed the company will not accept the proposition and the only solution will be arbitration proceedings to determine the value of the piece of land taken from Esquimalt road.

Allround Misunderstanding.

The trouble all arose following the decision of the city to widen Esquimalt road at a point opposite the site of the old Fairall Brewery, which site now belongs to the Silver Spring Brewing company and on which the company recently commenced operations of erecting a new brewery. The property claimed by the company jutting into the roadway a small distance and in order to widen the street at that point to a width of 50 feet it was found necessary to expropriate a piece from the brewery company as well as from owners on the other side of the street. The brewery company refused to give up any piece of its property, and in fact to give the city what was asked would have meant that a portion of the basement being put in for the new brewery would have to be cut out. After some negotiations the council decided, though not unanimously, that in return for the property on Esquimalt road the city would grant to the company the use of 30 feet of Lime street at the rear of the brewery premises. Despite the objections of neighboring owners in Victoria West who even went to the extent of holding a public meeting of protest, the council passed the necessary bylaw but restricted its grant of Lime street by retaining the right at any time to take back the Lime street portion on compensating the company for the buildings which might be erected thereupon. After the bylaw was passed the company entered a protest claiming that the understanding arrived at had been that any time it was forced to give back the Lime street property it would have the right to recover possession of that portion of Esquimalt road granted to the city for street widening. This contention of the company came as a surprise to the city which referred the matter to the city solicitor and the latter's opinion was read at last night's meeting.

Revert to All Order.

Alderman Turner, chairman of the committee, expressed the opinion that perhaps after all it would be better to let the improvement scheme for Esquimalt road drop. He would favor the B. C. Electric company running its line around by Lime street and thus open up the latter thoroughfare. The only thing to do would be to repeal the bylaw.

Alderman Henderson also favored that step. While the city might conserve that portion of Esquimalt road which it now possesses it should certainly open up Lime street, if not immediately, some time

JUDGMENT GIVEN IN LADYSMITH CASE

Mr. Justice Irving Refused to Quash Conviction in Gambling House Case

Mr. Justice Irving yesterday handed down his judgment in the case of L. C. Kline, of Ladysmith, who was sent to jail for six months for keeping a gambling house. His counsel, George Morphy, appealed by way of certiorari and among the points raised was the one that the magistrate had refused to read the witness' depositions over to them, and it was claimed that they were inaccurate. There was no stenographer present, and the magistrate took down the evidence in longhand himself. His Lordship refused to quash the conviction.

The text of the judgment follows: "Mr. Morphy's contention in that a magistrate in dealing with a case under part xvi is, by virtue of section 711, bound to take depositions in the manner prescribed by section 682. At first I thought that this contention was correct. It seems so reasonable a construction of the act, and so desirable a practice for magistrates to observe that one is disposed at first sight to accept it as sound, but section 798 plays the point in a different light.

"Section 798 provides that, except as specially provided for in sections 796 and 797 (which two sections have nothing whatever to do with the manner of taking the evidence) neither the provisions of the act relating to preliminary inquiries before Justices, nor of part xv, shall apply to proceedings under part xvi. Part xv relates to summary convictions. Section 798, subsection 4, therefore, must be read as authorizing the magistrate to proceed to dispose of the case summarily without regard to the provisions of the following sections, 682, 711 and 721.

"The result is that section 798 relieves the magistrate from the duty of reading the depositions over to the witness, before the prisoner enters on his defence.

"Although the conviction cannot be questioned because the magistrate did not read over to the witnesses their depositions, I think that magistrates, when they are proceeding under part xvi, would be adopting a good practice if they took the depositions in the manner prescribed by section 682, reading them to the witnesses in the presence of the accused, and dispensing with the signature only when necessary. The other points raised on the prisoner's behalf I disposed of on the argument. The conviction, therefore, stands."

It is likely that Mr. Morphy will apply to the Department of Justice to reduce the length of sentence. Klein served over a month before his second trial, when he was again sentenced to six months in jail. He would thus serve over seven months for an offence over the maximum penalty for which is six months.

POUND PARTY IN AID OF ORPHANAGE

The Annual Contribution Day Brings in Rich Harvest to Children

The annual pound party which was held at the Orphanage, Hillside avenue, on Friday, June 18th, was an unqualified success.

Everything seemed to smile on this event, from the brilliant sunshine to the happy faces of the streams of generous visitors, who, undeterred by distance and hot weather, cheered the hearts of the committee of management by their kindly presence. The Messrs. Longfield and their excellent orchestra kindly contributed in a very large measure, to the enjoyment and success of the afternoon.

The appended list of donations proves how large a place the children of the home hold in the sympathy and interest of the community at large. Should the name of any donor have been inadvertently omitted in the hurry and press of receiving the gifts, pardon is asked for the omission, which can be remedied by telephoning to the home.

Big Colonization Scheme.

Montreal, June 18.—It was learned here today that Col. Howell, of the Salvation Army, has gone West to confer with C. P. R. irrigation officials in regard to the purchase by the army of a large land irrigation district in Alberta for the establishment of a Salvation Army colony. When the scheme is developed it is proposed to settle all the army's immigrants in Canada there. Army officials say that this is the largest colonization scheme on record.

EXPECTED VISITORS

Next month Victoria is to be honored by a visit of a number of members of the International Council of Women, now in session in Toronto. Among the ladies now in Toronto are the following:

Her Ladyship the Countess of Aberdeen, Mrs. Ogilvie Gordon, of London, Eng., secretary of the International Council of Women; Mrs. Edwin Gray, president of the British Council of Women, and Miss James, secretary of the British Council; Mrs. Froken Anna Buch, president of the Danish Council of Women; Frau Marie Stritt, president of the German Council of Women; Mrs. (Dr.) Skogland, president of the Norwegian Council of Women; Frau Hanisch, president of the Austrian Council of Women; Mme. Ronocco Pava-Parvis, president of the Italian Council of Women; Miss Amelia Hansen, president of the Bergen Local Council of Women; Miss Fanny Schelle also of Bergen, Norway; Miss Opp de Vries, of Norway; Mrs. C. Richardson and Mrs. P. Richardson, both of England; Mrs. Seaman, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Bage, Miss Shaw, Mrs. Gough, all of Australia; Mrs. Dobson and Mrs. Stourton, of Tasmania.

How many of these will take the transcontinental trip we are not at present advised, but there is reason to expect that the large majority of them will do so. The City Council has decided to entertain them; but we venture to suggest that private citizens have a duty to perform in such a connection. That duty will be discharged fully as far as the ladies of the local Council are concerned, and it seems as if the public generally should co-operate in making the expected visitors welcome and leave a good impression on their minds. The Council of Women is recognized all over the world as a potent factor for good, and its proceedings are followed with interest in every civilized country. It rarely happens that a western city has the opportunity of extending its hospitality to so many distinguished and representative women. We have not the least doubt about Victoria doing full justice to itself on the coming occasion, and this reference to the matter is only made for the purpose of keeping the subject to the front.

AS TO STRANGERS.

At a meeting held not long ago, and not in Victoria, after some speeches had been made about the pleasantness of Vancouver Island as a home, and its many advantages, a gentleman arose in the back part of the hall and said that while everything that had been stated was true, and Vancouver Island was all that is claimed for it, yet strangers who come to live in the country do not always receive as cordial reception as they have a right to expect. He was speaking of a rural locality, but we have often heard the same things said of Victoria. There has been an improvement in this respect of late years, but even now some of the new comers are a long time in getting to feel at home. To some extent the same is true of most cities, but something different is expected in newer centres of population. It is not easy to say where the fault lies; if it were it would not be difficult to point out a remedy. It is not all on one side; and moreover some of the newer residents are likely to be impatient of delay in being taken up socially. This also is natural enough. They have been people of good social standing in their former homes, and they expect to receive recognition here as they deserve. But they must make allowances. They must remember that for many years Victoria, and the same is true of the older rural districts, went along quietly without the infusion of much new blood, and society adjusted itself to that condition, and the idea of disturbing it was not altogether pleasant. The Colonist mentioned the complaint of some new comers once to a lady who had lived here for a good number of years, and she said in substance that she had her circle of friends whom she had known for a long time; she found her existing social duties quite a heavy enough task, and if she made new friends she would have to drop at least some of the intimacies that she had for a long time kept up with old friends. She protested that she was not exclusive, and that she drew no social lines; she was ready to admit that she missed making delightful acquaintances by not broadening her circle; but she protested that she really could not think of doing so. "The new comers will after a time," she said, "revolutionize Victoria society, and we old timers will be pushed to the wall." She frankly admitted that she did not feel equal to the task of entering upon the new sort of life that inevitably comes from intimate association with new people. Thousands of people have come into Victoria during the past three years, and many of them have felt that they have not been met with that degree of cordiality to which they are in every way entitled. They will find in what the lady just quoted said an explanation at least in part. What is called Victoria exclusiveness is not the outcome of pride or selfishness. It is not because any one set of people look upon themselves as better than any other set. It is a habit generated by years of comparative isolation. It is rapidly disappearing with the advent of new people, and in a few years we will see the last of it.

RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION

We find in the Ottawa Journal a Winnipeg despatch giving some particulars about railway work in progress in the West. The estimate is that 2,000 miles of new line will be built at a cost of $85,000,000. This is a vast amount of work to be carried on in communities whose population does not greatly exceed a million. The Canadian Pacific is to complete the double-tracking of its line between Winnipeg and Port William and close the gap on its direct line between the Manitoba capital and Edmonton. It will carry on work actively in Southern Alberta, where, among other extensive works, it will erect a bridge that is to cost $1,250,000. The finishing touches are to be put on the Field tunnel, several minor branch lines will be built; 247 miles of track will be relaid with heavy steel; 304 miles will be re-ballasted and great terminals will be undertaken at Port William, where a union station is to be built in conjunction with the Grand Trunk Pacific.

The Canadian Northern will pursue an active campaign. It will build 120 miles of new line in Manitoba and new lines in Saskatchewan and Alberta. One of these will give Prince Albert direct connection with Edmonton. It is going to push construction in the direction of the Peace river, and will begin a line giving it an entrance into Calgary over its own rails.

The Grand Trunk Pacific will complete its line to Edmonton so as to have it ready for the fall's business and will push forward rapidly in the direction of Yellow Head Pass. It will also construct several branch lines. This company expects to have a complete line of its own from a point not far east of the British Columbia boundary to the head of Lake Superior by the time it is necessary to move this year's wheat crop.

The Great Northern is expected to construct into Winnipeg from the South.

This forms a large, diversified and highly interesting programme, and its fulfilment ensures very good times in the Prairie Provinces. Next year we hope there will be a corresponding story to tell about British Columbia.

PARTICULARS, PLEASE?

Mr. R. L. Borden, having gone down to Nova Scotia for a little holiday, the esteemed Chronicle of Halifax fires a whole broadside of criticism against him. Therein does the effete East differ from the wild and woolly West. When our public men come home from a sojourn at the capital we are all ready to extend to them the right hand of fellowship, tell them what good fellows they really are and assure them that we are glad to see them. Occasionally there is an exception, but it can generally be diagnosed as a case of mental or physical liver. Just try, good reader, and appreciate the state of body or mind a man must be during these fine June days, when he discharges a volley against a party leader, of which the following is a sample brick:

Mr. Borden acquiesced in an agitation in British Columbia which was conducted with an intensity and ferocity which proved a menace to peace and might easily have led to appalling consequences. Mr. Borden cannot escape personal responsibility for the prolongation of the grave conditions in British Columbia. A strong and clear-cut declaration on his part as a leader of the Conservative party of Canada would have allayed apprehension and checked the inflammatory utterances of others, but to the general alarm of all reflecting persons, free from sectional considerations, he failed to rise to the occasion. Every Canadian is satisfied how Sir John Macdonald would have acted in such a crisis. No leader would have appeared more than Sir John, but in such a crisis the interests of Britain would have been his first consideration.

It really would be interesting, if it were not that the roses are with us and out of doors is too enjoyable to waste one's energy in political controversy, to know what this is all about. What was it that was a menace to peace and that might easily have led to appalling consequences, with which Mr. Borden acquiesced? What was it that took place in British Columbia of which these dreadful things could be said, even without introducing Mr. Borden's name into the matter? There was a street fight in Vancouver with some Japanese; but it never menaced peace nor involved disastrous consequences. It was simply an exhibition of rowdiness, with which the police were abundantly able to cope. It never menaced anything after the first senseless ebullition, and it did not meet with sympathy enough to entitle it to be considered seriously. Such as it was, Mr. Borden certainly did not acquiesce in it, nor did any other Conservative leader. There was an agitation for the exclusion of Japanese. In this Mr. Borden acquiesced and so did the Dominion government. This therefore can hardly be the Chronicle's "menace to peace." There was a general feeling in this province that an influx of Hindus would be very harmful, not only to the community but to the Hindus themselves. Whether or not

Mr. Borden acquiesced in this we do not know, but assume that, being a sensible man, he did; and at any rate the Dominion government saw the force of the case against Hindu immigration and took the necessary steps to stop it. Mr. Borden did acquiesce in the request of the province for an inquiry into its claims against the Dominion, but we can assure our contemporary that at no time was the agitation for Better Terms dangerous to peace or likely to be fraught with dreadful consequences. We fear our interesting contemporary has been dreaming, and in the course of its slumbers a vision of the editorial page of one of its local contemporaries has come before it, and in some mysterious way—dreams are inexplicable things—it has confused it with British Columbia, and Mr. Borden. Unless this is the explanation we stand aghast as we contemplate the future. If when strawberries and cream are available even to poor newspaper men, when the golden sunsets send thrills of peace and good will down one's spinal column, in the spring when young men's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love, when there are daisies under foot and fleecy clouds high in the sky, our Halifax contemporary emits such terrible things, what may we not expect when the political clouds lower, when the storms of the Atlantic shake the sanctum and all that remains of the joys of summer is the smoked herring and the salted codfish? We headed this article with a request for particulars, but on second thoughts, spare us, good Chronicle, at least for the present. Wait until the winter of discontent approaches, when the fire of combat is necessary to keep the blood in motion. Just close the books of your unreliable political memory, turn the key in your sanctum door and come out here and see for yourself that everything is lovely and man is only vile at election times.

CHINESE IN OTTAWA.

The Ottawa Citizen says that the Chinese in that city are badly treated. It asserts that rowdies interfere with their business, and the gentle game of fan-tan is interrupted by the police. It alleges that games of bridge and poker are played by every class of white people in all parts of the city, but if a Chinaman ventures to ask a few friends to the house to engage in his peculiar form of vice, the police take him in hand. This seems to show that the heathen Chinese for ways that are dark and tricks that are vain is not what we are told he once was. The moral of the Citizen's complaint seems to be that the Chinaman should learn to play "blidge," and be in the swim. If the representatives of the Yellow Kingdom will persist in languishing behind advancing civilization and play fan-tan, which no white man ever yet did understand, they must expect to be pulled by the police. In respect to this unholy game, we are in Victoria much as they are in Ottawa. We recognize it as wrong for a Chinaman to play fan-tan, but as proper for white folk to play bridge and poker. But when it comes to interfering with our Mongolian neighbors in carrying on their business, we are a good many laps ahead of Ottawa. As a rule, Chinamen are law-abiding. The Citizen says that statements made by Chinese in court are viewed with suspicion. They are not so regarded here, and the experience of people generally is to the effect that the word of a Chinaman is quite as good as that of any other person.

The decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners that the White Pass and Yukon route is under the jurisdiction of that tribunal will be regarded with great satisfaction by the business public.

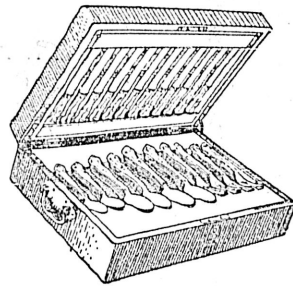

By our halldom "death and so on, can such things be and the world stand? A German had a mustache, which he wore tip-tilted like the petals of a rose, or a la Kaiser. Some naughty men cut it off, and a judge has placed the value of the injury done at $17.50. When one Wilhelm returns from his interview with one Nicholas in the Baltic Sea, the judge who has appraised the royal style of mustache will hear something drop, and on looking around will find it is his judicial head.

Westward Ho has a page devoted to Victoria, half of which is taken up by a picture of the Parliament Building. Among the pieces of information given is that our Post Office was erected "to stand the test of ages." That may be true as far as the material is concerned, but not as to capacity, for we overgrow its capacity every three years. The magazine says some pretty things about our town, but somehow or other we do not feel quite pleased to be told that "fruit growing and poultry raising and other interesting agricultural industries" afford opportunities for business, when nothing else is mentioned.

The Evening Post suggests to the Victoria Development League that it might take up the case of certain deserving organizations. This suggestion is well meant, and it is in line with certain other suggestions that have been made to the league. We have made some inquiries, and have learned that the league, while it may have the utmost sympathy with requests of this nature, regards itself simply as trustee of the moneys in its hands, and considers itself bound to apply them to the particular purpose for which they have been contributed. We are sure that our contemporary will recognize the wisdom of this view. We are glad that the question has been raised, because it gives an opportunity to make public the position of the league on such matters.

SEVEN YEARS AN INVALID

Then She Took "Fruit-a-tives" and Is Now Well.

Arnprior, Ont., Nov. 27, 1908. I was an invalid for seven years from fearful Womb Trouble. I had falling womb, with constant pain in the back and front of my body and all down my legs. There was a heavy discharge and this made me weak, sleepless, restless and miserable. Often I was obliged to be in bed for a month at a time. I was treated by several doctors, but their treatment did me no permanent good.

A few months ago, I was persuaded to try "Fruit-a-tives." I took several boxes, and from the outset of this treatment I was better, the constipation was cured, and the discharge lessened. I took, for the paleness, several bottles of the Iron Mixture as recommended in the "Fruit-a-tives" book, but I feel that it was "Fruit-a-tives" alone that cured me.

(Mrs.) Eliza Levesque. Take "Fruit-a-tives" and cure yourself. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50; trial box 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

AMUSEMENTS

John Drew in a New Comedy
Local theatregoers will have their first opportunity of judging the work of a brand new dramatist when John Drew comes to the Victoria theatre on Monday, June 28.

Mr. Drew's play this season is "Jack Straw," a comedy by W. Somerset Maugham, the newest of the British playwrights. Mr. Maugham has written several comedies, every one of which has scored a genuine success in London. At one time last season he had four plays, all successful, running at different first class London theatres. Only two of his plays have so far been presented in America. "Jack Straw" was the first. Mr. Drew produced it at the Empire theatre in New York last September, and it ran there to crowded houses for four months. "Lady Frederick" was done a little later by Miss Ethel Barrymore and scored an equally emphatic hit.

"Jack Straw" is written in light comedy vein, but there is an undercurrent of grimly sad that gives it vigor and also increases its interest. Its characters are well drawn and the dialogue is bright and witty. In the title role Mr. Drew has a part that suits him better than anything he has played for a long time.

"The Servant in the House"

The story of "The Servant in the House," which appears at the Victoria theatre, Thursday, June 24, was told in brief form by the "Vancouver Record" the morning after the play was produced in that city, as follows:

"Beneath an English church that requires restoration lie tombs diffusing noxious vapors through the edifice and the attached vicarage. To cleanse these foul places came a brother of the vicar whom that cleric has long since disowned, and whose child he has adopted—the Dr. Man, a rough, foul-spoken creature, once a drunkard, now an embittered toiler, but proud of his work, and with the fires of a kind of revolutionary idealism smoldering in him. Simultaneously with his arrival at the vicarage comes the Lord Bishop of Benares, third brother of this strangely assorted family. He is a stout, unrefined, and for purposes of his own he elects to tarry incoincidentally for a few hours in this household. There he beholds the spectacle of brother ashamed of brother, of child hidden from parent, of wife intriguing pitilessly in behalf of a dearly loved husband, of another bishop, the wife's brother, scheming to turn pious projects into a gigantic building fund for the benefit of the higher clergy. Beholding these things, the Bishop of Benares became for a little while the 'servant in the house,' and before his level gaze and his searching words the fabric of deceit and expediency and self-seeking faded down. The symphony of the hair is enough, and in less powerful hands than Mr. Kennedy's it might prove extremely commonplace. But in his hands the figure of the bishop became a flame of light and leading, pointing the way gently, beneficently and positively and at the last bringing weary hearts to peace."

GREAT BRITAIN AND AIR POWER

First Meeting of Aerial League
Reference to McCurdy's Work

The only consolation which the chairman of the Aerial League of the British Empire could find after a survey of Britain's efforts towards the conquest of the air was the performance of Douglas McCurdy, a son of A. W. McCurdy, of this city, in Nova Scotia.

At the first ordinary general meeting of the Aerial League of the British Empire, at the Carlton Hotel, Lord Roberts was elected president, says the London Standard. It was announced that the War Office were likely to give permission to officers on active service to join and work for the league, and the suggestion was thrown out that the public should be approached to raise £50,000 wherewith to buy a complete Zeppelin airship, which might serve as a model for even more successful machines. Captain Cave-Brown presided.

The chairman read the report of the executive committee, in which was traced the progress of the league since its foundation on January 16, 1909, including its incorporation and its work leading up to the great Mansion House meeting on April 8.

The first work of the executive committee, said the chairman, "was to form working committees to transact business connected with the overseas and home branches. It has also established finance, propaganda, parliamentary, press, and publication committees." Having described the provincial work of the league, the chairman proceeded: "Colonel H. S. Massey, C.B., has been very busy for some time with the War Office, a committee having been appointed by Mr. Haldane to discuss the question of our national aerial defence. The War Office was asked to establish a college of aeronautics, and to appoint a committee to confer with the league for the purpose of seeing how far civilians might obtain the benefits of the tuition, experimental, and research work given and undertaken in such an institution. They were also asked that officers on the active list might be allowed to associate themselves with the work of the Aerial League by joining that institution and helping in other ways. Colonel Massey also offered, on behalf of the league, to work for the establishment and organization of aerial coast defence, and to pay to be attached to the territorial forces.

Negotiations With the Government.

"The results of this meeting are still awaited, and a reply will probably be forthcoming so soon as the War Office has conferred with the Admiralty. But I am permitted to say by a member of the War Office committee that our request as regards officers of the active list is likely to receive the sanction of the government. We shall warmly welcome this decision as a proof that the present government, and we hope, all future governments to follow, view with favor the aims of our league."

"Before the special committee of the league dissolved it was able to arrange a satisfactory working basis with the Aeronautical Society of Great Britain and the Aero Club, whereby the sphere of the different bodies was outlined. Practically, the lines of demarcation are that the Aeronautical Society shall devote itself chiefly and be considered paramount in matters respecting the science of aeronautics, the Aero Club takes up the sporting side and the Aerial League the organization of national and patriotic movements. What I have said can give you no idea of the extent and difficulty and the work of the organization of the league in the face of the terrible apathy that existed before we took up the work. The indifference is just beginning to give place to a feeling and interest in the subject which we trust will deepen into a sense of responsibility and an enthusiasm in regard to aeronautics, which will eventually lead to this country drawing level with, and finally surpassing, other nations in the command of the air."

"On all sides we hear of aerial activity; we can scarcely take up a newspaper that does not contain the chronicle of some new and wonderful feat; and the pity—the shame of it is that these have all taken place outside the British Empire, with one exception, and that is the performance of Douglas McCurdy, in Nova Scotia. What we have to arouse in this country is enthusiasm, and it should be the personal work of every branch of the league to make itself acquainted with the great possibilities that lie before aerial navigation, and to endeavor to interest every one in the vast and extremely rapid progress that is being made abroad, and what this progress means to an island power if once she allows herself to fall behind other nations (cheers). It is to make England as strong in the air as she is on the sea (in comparison with other powers) that this league has been formed—but it is clearly understood that our efforts are to be directed solely to the defence of the Empire (hear, hear)."

£50,000 Asked For.

In conclusion, the chairman said: "I beg of you not to criticize us or the report too deeply and severely, but rather help us with your sympathy, your brains and your pens. We are fully aware of our shortcomings and deficiencies. I will also ask you to help us with your purse, or, rather, influence your friends and the general public to subscribe generously to our

"GOOD GROWING WEATHER"

When the New Scalp Antiseptic is Used
A good head of hair is as much a "crown of glory," for man as it is for woman, notwithstanding all the poetry on the subject applied to the female sex exclusively. In the season when flies bite, the baldheaded man can sympathize with the Egyptians who were so sorely plagued on account of the children of Israel. Why not try Newbro's Herpicide? Others have been benefited and are loud in its praise. It cleanses the scalp, kills the germ at the root of the hair, and by keeping the scalp sweet, pure and wholesome the hair is bound to grow as nature intended, regardless of the temperature. Try it and be convinced. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. One Dollar bottles guaranteed.

funds, so that we may be in a position to carry out our aims. As regards the future policy of the league, until the new executive committee meets, no announcement can be made; but, speaking for myself alone, I would submit to you whether it would not be the best idea to approach the public boldly and freely and ask for a sum of, say, £50,000, so as to enable us to buy a complete Zeppelin airship. Such an idea, if carried out successfully, seems to me full of possibilities for the future, as I feel convinced that with such an efficient model to examine and work we may rely on English engineers for building an even more successful airship."

The report of the committee was adopted.

Colonel H. S. Massey retiring from the presidency, the following resolution was carried with enthusiasm: "That Field-Marshal Earl Roberts, K.G., be invited to honor us by accepting the presidency of the Aerial League for the coming year." General Arlathnot was elected treasurer. The committee was appointed as follows: Rear-Admiral the Hon. Thomas Brand, Captain R. A. Cave-Brown-Cave, R.N., Major F. E. Bradshaw, Colonel C. F. Massey, Mr. E. Goddard, Colonel Iver Philipps, M.P., Mr. B. S. Straus, M.P., and Captain T. G. Tulloch.

Sticking to a Thing.

Many business men fail because they are quitters. It may be that more fail for this reason than for any others. Whatever the proportion, the number is too large. Men can accomplish more than they ever dreamt of, in most cases. It is mainly a question of holding on when a man is engaged in a pursuit into which his physical and mental qualities fit. If plants succumbed to every whiff of biting air in the raw days of spring and shrivelled up at every drought of summer, there would be no fruit. Nature points the way to holding on with grim tenacity and left alone the face of the earth is smothered in shrub and flower and seed.

In the fields of industry, Thomas A. Edison is a case in point. He was a failure for this reason that he gave up. He says: "In scientific work, as in all other work, the chief factor of success is the power of sticking to a thing. I attribute all that I have accomplished to the fact that I hold on where most persons get discouraged." Examples are as numerous as successful men. Not all men succeed in the same degree, since men are differently constituted and labor under varying conditions, but a doubting, shifting, yielding nature would make a mistake of travelling east to reach a western town; so none should pursue an object unpreparedly and without purpose. But it is not only necessary to be sure that you are right and then go ahead but to keep going. From an editorial in the Bookkeeper for May.

What Difference?

"Beg pardon, sir," began the beggar, stopping a suburbanite at the ferry. "Can you spare a few cents to help me across the river?"

"Haven't you any money at all?" inquired the pedestrian.

"Not a cent," replied the beggar.

"Umph," grunted the pedestrian. "What difference does it make which side of the river you're on?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Appointments Gazetted

The V. & S. railway has issued a call of $15 per share upon all members except those holding shares under certificates Nos. 80, 88, 92 and 97, according to a notice appearing in the Provincial Gazette. The action was taken at a meeting of the company held on Monday last.

Water Off Tomorrow

Water Commissioner James L. Raymur has issued notice that the water supply will be turned off tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from all that part of the city to the west of Douglas street, except in James Bay, where the district affected will be the Douglas street, except in James Bay, where the district affected will be the Douglas street, except in James Bay, where the district affected will be the Douglas street.

Hard to Please.

Complaints have been made by some of the local tradesmen at the closing up of Belleville street, where paving is in progress. The tradesmen are wondering at the perversity of some people who complain most strenuously when an improvement is made, but are hurried along as rapidly as they consider it should and then when the work is well under way further complain because the performance of the work requires the closing of the street.

Hard at Drill.

After having become thoroughly wise to the intricacies of the mass of wires about the city hall, where Fire Chief Davis has been drilling the firemen in the art of raising the big truck ladder, another spot was chosen yesterday afternoon for the daily exercises, which were carried out on Fisgard street, in front of the Pook Yuen Company's premises. Here the overhead wires gave the firemen even harder work, but the drill was executed in good time, and incidentally gave entertainment to about every member of Chinatown's population.

Increased Protection

If the recommendation of the fire warden is adopted by the city council the fire protection of Victoria West will be increased to the extent of an addition of five hydrants to those already installed. Recently four hydrants were placed in the neighborhood of St. Charles street, where added fire protection was imperative, and Chief Davis has now urged more hydrants in Victoria West, where at present in many locations it would prove necessary, should a fire occur, to lay hose for a distance of 1,500 to over 2,000 feet. Under the present arrangement with the Esquimalt Waterworks company the company furnished fire hydrants and installs them, the city paying a monthly rental of $4 each.

Owners Grow Impatient.

The delay on the part of the city in having the plans and estimate of cost of the proposed improvement scheme for the gravel pit section of Spring Ridge prepared is not meeting with approval from residents of that section of the city. The committee of owners which recently met the city council and arrived at the decision to go ahead with the work of establishing proper street grades, filling in the gravel pits and levelling the hilly sections, has been waiting for some time now for the engineer's figures and plans. It is admitted that with the work now under way the engineer's department is busy and some of the owners are prepared to admit that perhaps a delay is inevitable, but after waiting for years for some definite scheme of improvement to be approved by the city they are extremely anxious that no delay should now occur in an early commencement of the work.

A FEW
REMARKS

The purpose of a saw is to cut. It should cut easily, cut cleanly, and cut with every movement. I prefer an Atkins Saw. Its blade is "Silver Steel" recognized the world over as the finest, crucible steel ever made in ancient or modern times. It is hard, close-grained and tough. It holds a sharp cutting edge longer than any other saw. Its blade tapers perfectly from thick to thin, from handle to tip. Thus it makes easy work for itself, runs easily and does not buckle. Its temper is perfect. When bent by a crooked thrust, it springs into shape without kinking. The Atkins Saw cuts—and does it best of any. We make all types and sizes of saws, but only one grade—the best.

CONVICTION IN
LOTTERY CASEJudge Lampman Finds in Fa-

Chinese Case

Ying Foy, the Chinese gambler, was convicted yesterday by Judge Lampman of selling a lottery ticket, and was fined $25, and in default three weeks' imprisonment. The case was tried about two weeks ago, his honor reserving his decision. This prosecution has been regarded as somewhat in the nature of a test case, and now that this conviction has been obtained, the other fifteen cases will be proceeded with

PHOENIX BREWERY
VS. QUAGLIOTTIPlaintiffs Sue for Injunction on Account of Interference
With Right-of-way

The case of The Phoenix Brewery Company, et al vs. Quagliotti occupied the entire time of Mr. Justice Irving in the supreme court yesterday and will be continued today. It is a complicated case in which the plaintiffs are suing for an injunction and damages on account of alleged interference with an alleged right of way through a small court and alley which skirts the Excelsior saloon and comes

New Pemberton Chapel at the Royal Jubilee Hospital—Interior View.

Immediately. For the defendant Mr. Alkman asked for a reserved case, but the judge refused to grant one. This will not prevent an appeal to the full court, though it makes the path of the appellants somewhat more difficult.

In his decision, Judge Lampman upheld the contentions of the prosecution on all points. In the first place, he held that the charge of unlawfully selling a lottery ticket was properly laid, as the code allows popular language to be used, and does not require the exact words of the section to be followed. He also held, following Rex v. Lorraine, that the prize had not to be specific property, in existence at the time the lottery ticket was sold.

On the main objection that there was no evidence of how the game was worked, he held that the fact that three tickets were sold for 35 cents each, that the witnesses were told that there was a drawing, and that on returning received $1.50 on one ticket, 15 cents on the second, and nothing on the third according to the number of winning

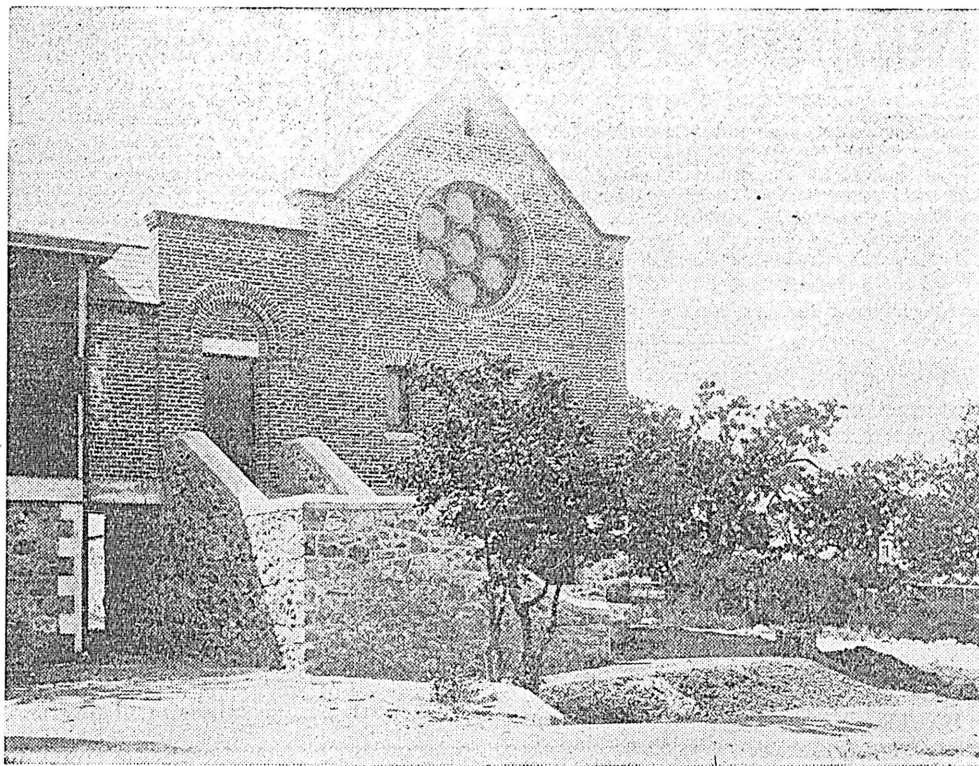

SUCCUMBS TO
SUDDEN ATTACKAged Army Pensioner of Sooke
Stricken Without Warning

For many years a resident of Sooke where he had been widely and favorably known, John Crogan Murray, a pensioner of the Imperial government, died at the Jubilee hospital on Thursday evening following an attack of cerebral hemorrhage. On Wednesday deceased was stricken and friends with whom he had been living for many years informed the provincial police department of the sudden illness. Con-out on Government street next to the New England hotel, M. & L. Young, proprietors of that hotel are among the plaintiffs. It is also claimed by the brewery that their rights to ancient lights in the Excelsior saloon have been interfered with.

It seems that the property in question originally belonged to one individual who sold off various parcels and in the deeds reserved a right of way over portions of the ground. The ground over which part of this right of way went, however, has been acquired by prescription and has been built on, and, it is claimed, in lieu thereof a right of way has been obtained over the land owned by the defendant by virtue of long usage.

A number of witnesses were called for the plaintiffs yesterday who testified as the using of this right of way. One of them was Mr. Siebenbaum, who said that he had knocked a hole in the iron door put up by defendant and had continued to use the passage when he chose. He had been informed that he would lose his rights if spots obtained, was obtaining the amounts mentioned by a mode of chance, as no skill entered into the transaction. That was all that was necessary.

His Honor commented on the fact that gambling was notoriously carried on elsewhere, but that only the Chinamen were prosecuted; and asked counsel for the Crown if the city was sincere in its reform policy. Under all the circumstances he would only inflict a fine of $25. H. W. R. Moore appeared for the Crown, and J. A. Alkman and George Morphy for the defence.

The defence has not yet decided whether or no the case will be taken to the court of appeal.

stable Carter in an auto went to Sooke and hurried Mr. Murray into the city to the hospital, at which he arrived in an unconscious condition. He lingered through the following day but succumbed in the evening.

Deceased was an old soldier, having served his time with the colors first in Troop "A" of the Royal Horse artillery and later in the Life Guards. He was a man of splendid physique and until his sudden attack was apparently a man of robust health despite his seventy-four years. Many years ago he came to Sooke and had been residing with William Charteris. He was a Scotsman by birth, but so far as is known had no relatives in this country and but very little is known of his antecedents. The body was taken to the B. C. Funeral-Furnishing company's rooms, whence the funeral will take place this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to Ross Bay cemetery.

he did not go on asserting them.

At the close of the plaintiff's case, Mr. Alkman moved for a dismissal of the case so far as the ancient lights' claim was concerned, on the ground that the 20 years user could not start until title to the land was acquired by prescription, and the evoking of the quieting title act in 1890, and that there was not sufficient time for the right to have been acquired between that time and 1906, when the local statute was passed abolishing ancient lights. A clear 20 years was necessary.

H. B. Robertson, who is acting for the plaintiffs will reply this morning.

Here and There

Canon Beanlands and his family will have the sympathy of a great many Victorians in the sad death of his daughter. During her girlhood here she was loved and esteemed by all who knew her. Her life was full of promise, for she was talented as well as good. For the husband, so terribly bereaved, much pity will be felt, even though he is unknown to her friends in Victoria.

It is surprising how little we understand of the things which concern us most. We all know that we pay far more for what we eat than we did, even a short time ago; but why bread and vegetables and meat should have so greatly increased in price we do not know. It is, perhaps, satisfactory to learn that wiser people than ourselves know almost as little as we do about the causes of increased prices. The editor of the New York Sun blames the farmers. He does not say that they are unduly greedy of gain, but that they follow old-fashioned methods and pay more for labor than they should. "The consumers," this writer says, "are today, as they have been for many years, compelled to pay for indifferent, shoddy, and often stupid methods prevalent on American farms."

The Montreal Star rather indignantly opposes this view. Farmers in Canada have, he contends, been quite as progressive as any other body of working people. They pay increased prices for all that they consume or use, and have learned to live in greater comfort than their fathers did. Two reasons are given for the increased cost of the produce of the farms. The larger markets and the increased profit made by those who handle the produce before it reaches the consumer.

It is very plain that increased areas must be brought under cultivation, and that the land now cultivated must be made more productive. More farmers are needed in the world, and in looking for careers for young men this must be taken into consideration. Every other calling or profession may be overstocked, but the men who supply the world with food will, as the years go on, be ever in greater demand. Women who are willing to be farmers' wives will seldom want husbands, and women will learn to leave the counter, the office, and the factory in order to cultivate fruit, to raise poultry, or to grow flowers.

But it is not likely that the price of produce will be greatly lowered by the increase in the number of laborers. There is a tendency to introduce into country life the comforts if not the elegances that drew country people of the last generation away from the land. The farmer's sons and daughters are, in the older provinces, at least as well educated as their city cousins. The farmer's house is well furnished, and his wife and daughters well dressed. They drive in comfortable carriages, and he owns good horses. All these things require a good income, and the world would be foolish to grudge their most important servant such wages as enable him to make the most of his life.

On the other hand, the wheat goes through many hands before the loaf reaches the table of the city consumer. Whether too much toll has been taken by those through whose hands it passes is a question for the political economist. What is true of the most important of farm products is true of all others in all parts of the world with which our tables are supplied or our clothing made.

All the laws that rule these things are reformed, if they need reforming; we must be content, by the exercise of the best skill of which we are mistress, and of due care and economy, endeavor to supply these dependent upon us with nourishing food and suitable clothing.

A great change has come about in English society, according to a writer in the Daily Mail. Ostentation and extravagance have gone out of fashion. Whether the revolution has been caused by the want and distress which most self-absorbed or callous of the very rich could not ignore during the season that has just past or whether considerations of health and prudence had its effect upon those who are rich in this world's goods, it is certain that far less wine is drunk at entertainments and fewer dishes partaken of than ever before.

Indeed the use of wine among women has so greatly decreased that a foreign observer said that: "In England the best people do not drink wine at lunch." Meat, too, is used far more sparingly than in the past. It is not only women who refrain from partaking freely of wine. Excess among gentlemen is altogether a thing of the past. It is said that His Majesty the King has set the example of shortening and simplifying the dinner party. Where the king dines fewer courses are served and but one wine is offered to the guests.

Clubs, both men's and women's, are said to be suffering from the abstemiousness which has become so fashionable. Ella Hepworth Dixon, the writer of the witty article in the Mail, more than hints that since diners have become sober they are no longer brilliant, but she is compelled to admit that the women who drink only water and eat very little, live very strenuous lives.

The young people follow the example of their elders and enjoy their dances without partaking of a tithe of the refreshments formerly consumed. In closing the article the writer says: "It is precisely those boys and girls who will be leading society in a decade or so, so there is every reason to believe that the new frugality is not a passing phenomenon, but will completely alter the character of our social life."

The effect of such a change will be very far-reaching and no one can doubt that on the whole it will be beneficial. No class is in more danger of voluntarily suffering from want of food or drink and there are always temptations to excess. It is not often that a great reform begins with the upper classes of society, but it is almost certain that less gin and beer will be drunk by the poor when it is known that the richest use wine and liquors; if at all, in great moderation.

In acting in this way at a time when thousands of their fellow subjects are starving at home and when patriotism seems to call for a country secure from danger abroad, the British aristocracy are showing themselves willing to be leaders of a great people. While there may be in some places an excess of frugality, which may provoke a smile, the movement on the whole is deserving of praise and, perhaps, of imitation.

Some wise people are trying to improve the verse of Heber's Missionary hymn:

"From Greenland's icy mountains,
From India's coral strand,
Where Africa's sunny fountains
Roll down their golden sand" is not verbally correct, say these critics, and various changes in the wording of the line are suggested. It is safe to say that of all the thousands who have sung the grand hymn not one ever imagined that "Africa's sunny fountains" were in India. No other missionary hymn, and very few hymns of any kind, have been sung with such fervor as this. The critics had better leave it alone. Bishop Heber was a scholar as well as a saint, and it is not likely that the error, if error it is, escaped his notice. At any rate, a different wording would spoil it for those who love it most.

All who have lived upon the Atlantic coast know much of the terrible ravages of tuberculosis. They have seen one member of the family contract the disease perhaps in a distant city, or in some mysterious way, and then have observed that several, perhaps all, the other members became its victims. Why, long before the fact that the disease was infectious was not learned till scientists had discovered its bacillus seems strange. Yet, for generations, though, it was known to be fatal, and believed to be incurable, no one dreamed that it was catching. Now, we have reversed our opinion. We believe the disease is infectious but are convinced that under certain conditions it may be cured. We have been told that it is not hereditary and we know that with care a predisposition towards the disease may be overcome.

Yet, we are in great danger of becoming cruel through our dread of infection. Among the people of a former generation there were never wanting friends and neighbors to wait on the sick girl or young man or it might be, the mother of a family. Hospitals were scarce and had it not been for these kindly ministrations many a sufferer would have been left to die alone and neglected. There are living today, thousands of old women who 40 or 50 years ago acted the part of the good Samaritan. No precautions except those that would suggest themselves to any cleanly woman were observed. Health and strength and perhaps their absorption in their charitable work rendered them immune from the infection. They could tell that in some, if not in all cases, where tuberculosis spread through a family, the house was damp and badly ventilated and the members of the family in delicate health. Often the home was crowded and in winter the fresh air was excluded.

In homes better situated and into which light and air had access, the disease was often confined to one victim and frequently it happened that change of climate and surroundings resulted in recovery.

In these days an unreasoning fear has taken possession, not only of individuals but of whole communities. In the neighborhood of large cities for sanatoria cannot be obtained because the people in the neighborhood dread infection. Though the disinfection is now understood even the closest relatives are afraid to wait upon the sick. Hospitals will not admit tuberculosis patients, and object to their presence near the general hospital. All this is not only wrong but very foolish. If the disease is ever to be stamped out it will be by using all necessary precautions, and by building places where patients can be treated under the very best conditions. It must be recognized that a hospital where all sanitary measures are taken is as nearly as possible absolutely free from infection from the tuberculosis bacilli.

It is in the dust of our streets and the dirty floors of public buildings, in close and ill ventilated houses which pass from one tenant to another without being properly cleaned, that danger is to be looked for and not in a hospital for the proper care of the victims of this disease.

The picnic to be held by the teachers and pupils of the High School at the Gorge today should prove a most enjoyable affair. Strangers are reminded that by procuring strawberries and cream at the Japanese Gardens they will furnish the teachers with the means of procuring books for the High School library.

The Evening Primrose.
Along the lane and in the mead,
There grows a sturdy, graceless weed;
To the sun's rays that ardent burn,
It yields its blossoming return;
'Neath his caresses, obdurate,
Its luscious stem shoots arrow-straight;
Save by its sessile leaves uncrowned,
It seems a cumber of the ground.

It's the knowledge of this art that gives the Prince Rupert a distinctive flavor unlike any cigar you've ever smoked.

WILL STRUGGLE FOR VICTORY

New Westminster and Vancouver Lacrosse Teams Meet Today

Vancouver, June 18.—New Westminster will have their best and most experienced lineup next Saturday for their match at Recreation Park with Vancouver and they will need it. Vancouver are going to put up a stubborn battle, which will make this game as meritorious with the spectators as any of the big cup games that are bringing piles of money to the Royal City this season. The champions are naturally quite confident. They won last Saturday and they have a stronger twelve operating in the coming match. "Dad" Turnbull will be back at his usual station of first home, and Whitehouse will also be back in the home, from which he has been missing in recent matches. Len Turnbull will also be in position, and probably W. Turnbull, Gordon Spring and Pete Latham will be required to take a rest. This will be Westminster at fullest of power, of scoring ability and is a testimony to the capacity of the Royal City for producing lacrosse stars that they have at their command three home players of such merit as Latham, Gordon Spring and Turnbull, who were in the match last Saturday, but are not requisitioned for this.

Nevertheless the Vancouver are going to put up an opposition which will stamp them as a powerful team, and they hope to do even better than they did at Westminster. They believe that the return of a couple of the older hands to the Westminster lineup will be offset by the advantage in ground. Vancouver will be playing before their own crowd, which is expected to be a big one, and one capable of rooting whole heartedly, and the enthusiasm should boost them along. In addition their own team may be somewhat stronger. The twelve is not yet selected, but it will be chosen from the players who collected last Saturday and Bob Springer and Longfellow, Springer may go to the defence field.

Honey Yorke and Wells Gray will officiate as referees, and though their task is a difficult one, they ought to be able to control the game efficiently. The Vancouver will likely play here after their cup matches. Querrie is asking for a guarantee, but President Jones is tendering a percentage.

GENERAL OTTER

Inspects Militia at Nelson and Is Entertained at Luncheon by Canadian Club

Nelson, B.C., June 18.—Brigadier-General Otter, C.B.E., together with officers of the 102nd Regiment, were entertained here today at luncheon by the Canadian Club, with Judge Forlin presiding. In a brief speech, General Otter laid stress upon Canada doing her share for imperial defence in the troubled times ahead for the empire, and urged the formation of cadet corps and the training of boys at school in military drill. The function, held in the Hume Hotel, was very largely attended.

In the morning the general visited the new rifle ranges and the armory, and in the afternoon inspected the 102nd Regiment. The general complimented the officers and men upon the result of his inspection. General Otter left for the east over the Crow's Nest in the morning, and this evening had many calls from former acquaintances. The Rossland and Kaslo companies of the regiment came here for the inspection, and the turnout was a very creditable one.

C. P. R. EMPLOYEE BETRAYS HIS TRUST

Vancouver, June 18.—Robert Scott, a trusted employee of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, is a fugitive from justice, accused of the embezzlement of funds belonging to the company reaching an amount variously estimated at from $1,000 to $2,000. On Monday morning young Scott failed to report at the office, and it was believed sickness kept him away. His home was called up over the telephone, but there nothing was known about his absence except that he had not been seen since Saturday night. Nothing was done about the matter till Monday afternoon, when two experts were set to work checking up his accounts. He had occupied the position of assistant ticket agent, and handled thousands of dollars in cash in the course of his daily ticket selling. Many tickets are unaccounted for. Just how great the amount of the alleged peculations is, the experts, who are still at work, are unable to determine, but the amount is very large.

Monday night a warrant was sworn out charging the young man with embezzlement, and his photographs and description are now in possession of every police department in the West. As soon as the information was laid before the local police the wires were kept hot notifying other departments that a warrant for Scott's arrest was out, and asking that if captured he be held and local officials notified. The young man accused had a very promising career before him. He had been employed for some time by the C. P. R. in a position of trust, and his promotion had been rapid. From all accounts, several months ago he took to running with bad characters, playing cards and drinking heavily. There is said also to be a woman at the bottom of the trouble. He was frequently seen in company with a woman of ill-repute. It is said, and at her door his downfall generally is laid.

DELUGED WITH OFFERS OF ROCK

Many Owners Would Supply City With Street Material on Variety of Terms

"Rock, rock everywhere and not a bit to crush," is about the conclusion the city fathers have arrived at in their search for a location from which to secure a permanent supply of material for street work. Ever since the city's effort to secure its supply from Mount Tolmie was foiled by the bylaw passed by the South Saanich municipal council the search for rock has continued. In the meantime many individuals owning land with a quantity of rock thereon have been getting into touch with the city engineer in an effort to induce the city to secure its supply from them. At last night's meeting of the streets, bridges and sewers committee a number of offers were considered.

The B. C. Sand and Gravel company offered crushed rock at a rate of $1.50 per cubic yard in an amount up to 50 yards per day, delivered at the company's Johnson Street bunkers. This offer will be accepted in the meantime in order that a supply of material for immediate work can be secured until such time as arrangements for a more permanent supply can be made.

Many Offers. Other offers were made by C. C. Pemberton of a portion of property on Shobolt's Hill, the city to have the rock on agreeing to fill in with earth and carry a water supply to the top of the hill; from W. G. DeRosier of 25,000 yards of rock at $1.25 per yard provided the city will allow the use of its small crusher; from George L. Courtenay of rock from his property on Sidney Inlet; from William Allan of rock on property on Hillside avenue if the city will purchase the property; from W. Lormier of rock from property located on the Saanich Arm, and from Messrs. Grant & Linnham of property near the corner of May street and Fairfield road at a figure of $30,000 or instead, rock at 25c per yard, provided the city will take not less than 40,000 yards per annum for a period of five years. This last proposition was considered a highly favorable one provided the rock could be secured for about 10 cents per yard, but to take the amount named at the price stipulated would mean that the city would be paying the sum of $125,000 in five years unless the rock were purchased and it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that the city could not afford to pay $30,000 for the property. The various propositions will, however, be looked into and a report thereon considered at a later date.

Contract Work. The committee, on the recommendation of the city engineer, will recommend to the council that tenders for the construction of local improvements will be asked for the following streets: Fernwood road from Fort street to Edmonton road, to Ryan street, Fourth and Fifth streets off Mount Tolmie road; Hulton street, Cowan avenue and Amphion streets; Belmont avenue from Pembroke street to Pandora avenue.

A petition from a number of owners on Edward street urging that the local improvement work on that thoroughfare be done by contract, provided that it is cheaper than by day labor and that each owner should be told how much his share will be before the work is commenced, and if that amount is considered too high the owners to have the privilege to refuse the work, will not be granted, Alderman Stewart pointing out that it would be most unfair to call for tenders and have contractors go to all the work of figuring and then tell them that the work will not be done. In fact he was sure the contractors would refuse to tender on that basis.

Can Now Assess. Now that the Rockland avenue case has been settled in the courts in the city's favor, the assessment for the work will be made. The question of whether the cost must be assessed against all the owners benefitted by the work or only against the owner who entered action against the city will be referred to the city solicitor, as will also an account of the B. C. Telephone company of the amount of $145 the cost of moving back a number of poles on Belleville street. The committee doubted whether this amount should be paid by the city, but instead be borne by the company.

Permission will be given the Oriental Importing company, 510 Cormorant street, to install at the edge of the sidewalk in front of its premises one of the new style lamps manufactured by the Standard Gillett Light company, which is guaranteed to give a light of 1,200 candle power. The permission is given on the understanding that the lamp is to remain there only so long as the council wills it, that it shall be located subject to the engineer's approval and be kept burning each night of the week until midnight.

Refuses Permission. Permission to anchor his boat house to the Causeway was refused a proprietor of a boat house situated near the Causeway, and the proprietor of another boat house who has attached his place to the steps of the Causeway will be ordered to remove his cable. The sign advertising the sailings of the White Swan excursion boat will also be ordered from the Causeway.

Tenders for the construction of the wharfed pavement on Wharf street, the city to supply the bricks, were opened and referred to Aldermen Turner and Henderson and the city engineer for report to the council meeting on Monday evening. Tenders were received from the following, each amount stated not including a large amount of extras the cost of which will not be known until figured out by the engineer: Lunny Bros., $23,550; Cameron Company, $16,766.63; Steadham, Savine & Co., $12,945. F. Ball also put in a tender for labor only, the material to be supplied by the city.

WANTED HERE ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Man Alleged to Have Victim-ized Local Resident Taken by Vancouver Police

Arrested yesterday morning by the Vancouver police authorities at the request of the local police, Lockard Dadds, a man of several aliases, and likewise an ex-convict, will be brought back to this city today to answer to a charge of having by false pretences obtained from A. M. Scutt, a young Englishman of means, the sum of $7,000. Scutt, who told the story of the loss of his money, stated that some time ago he entered into a real estate partnership with Dadds, whom he had informed that he was possessed of a fortune of $14,000, half of which it is alleged Dadds induced him to invest in shares of the B. C. Pulp Company. Scutt was desirous of investing in land, provided a good purchase could be made, and Dadds urged the purchase of 1,000 acres of land owned by Walter McPharland, near Cumberland, Scutt to put up $7,000 and Dadds $2,000. The two visited the locality, Dadds doing all the talking to the owner, having cautioned Scutt to say nothing to McPharland, who might otherwise suspect that it was intended to purchase, and would raise the price. Later the two decided that it would be a good thing to buy the land, and Dadds was given the money.

After the money was given over to Dadds the latter left the city, and as time went by and he did not return, Scutt became anxious, and went to the police with his story, and after official investigation of the transaction was made the Vancouver police were asked to effect Dadds' arrest. It is alleged that Dadds never made any payment to McPharland, and in fact the latter is not possessed of even one half 1,000 acres of land. Dadds was arrested at the Butler Hotel, Vancouver, where he had registered. He had placed $5,000 in a safety deposit box, and $2,000 in his own name in a bank account.

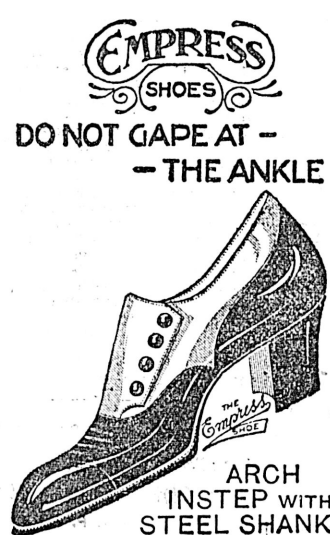

Implicated in Robbery. Dadds is already known to the Vancouver and local police through his connection with a sensational robbery case which occurred in the Terminal City on February 10, 1906. He served eighteen months out of a term of four years for his share in a diamond robbery from the store of J. R. McMillan Vancouver, the actual thief being Wallace Barrington, who secured his plunder by bursting a brick through the window of the jewellery store and snatching diamonds of a value of $6,400, made away, frightening people attracted to the spot by the noise of the crashing glass by firing a revolver shot. For several days the police hunted for the perpetrator of the robbery. Barrington, it was shown at the trial, made for Fair View, a suburb of Vancouver, cached his share of the diamonds in a hiding place, and then walked to Stevenson, thence getting away to Portland, Ore., where he was arrested. Dadds, or as he was then known, Harry Hazzard, alias J. K. Stone, disclosed his connection in the robbery by his anxiety to dispose of a quantity of diamonds valued at about $3,000. He peddled the stones about Vancouver to several secondhand jewellers, and eventually was arrested on suspicion. In the meantime Barrington was arrested at Portland and brought back to Vancouver. Each prisoner admitted his guilt when arraigned, Barrington being given five years and Dadds, or Hazzard, four years, the latter being convicted on a charge of being in possession of stolen property knowing it to have been stolen.

After serving eighteen months Dadds was released on parole on account of his good behavior in the penitentiary, and ultimately came to Victoria, where he was engaged as salesman of the pulp company's stock.

FOUR MEN HURT BY RUSSIAN FIRE

No Serious Injury Inflicted on Members of Steamer Woodburn's Crew

Stockholm, June 18.—Coyne, the flamen on board the British steamer Woodburn, of Newcastle, that was fired on in Pitikapas Bay Wednesday night by a vessel of the Russian squadron patrolling the rendezvous of Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William, sustained only slight injuries and probably will be able to leave the hospital where he was removed in a few days.

He declared that three other members of the crew sustained slight injuries from the Russian fire. Further details of the occurrence show that the Woodburn steamed during the night within the prohibited zone of navigation in the vicinity of Pitikapas Bay. Her captain evidently was unfamiliar with the published regulations. The Russian torpedo boat fired first three blank shots, which were followed by four projectiles.

Walling, Albany; second vice-president, R. C. Warren, Guthrie, Okla.; third vice-president, Mrs. Louisa King, Montreal; fourth vice-president, R. H. Gooley, Quebec; secretary-treasurer, E. J. Offers to Sell Baby.

San Francisco, June 18.—A baby is for sale in this city for a passage to Germany. The offer was made yesterday by a young widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Albert to Mrs. Prentiss Cobb Hale, the social leader of San Francisco. The woman declared that her mother is dying in Germany and she must reach her. She is ill herself and has been unable to support the baby since her husband died.

PITIFUL PLIGHT OF ABDUL HAMID

Paris, June 18.—The Temps published an interview with Fethi Bey, who is at present the chief guardian of the ex-Sultan of Turkey. Fethi Bey describes how he induced Abdul Hamid to give up his vast fortune, deposited in various foreign banks, to the Turkish government.

He pointed out to Abdul Hamid that so long as he retained this money under his personal control many people would think he would use it for the purpose of bringing about a reactionary revolution.

Having taken twenty-four hours to consider the matter, Abdul Hamid sent for Fethi Bey, and handed him signed orders on various foreign banks for the whole of his fortune to be delivered up. He only asked that Fethi Bey should give him a receipt for the documents.

The ex-Sultan, says the Temps, shivers for news of the outside world. He asks constantly for news of the army, the parliament, the new Sultan, and his former associates. The fear of death still haunts him, and he trembles at the least incident.

At times he has fits of depression and anger. He walks about his apartments talking loudly to himself. He is under the impression that he is being slowly done to death, and complains that his allowance is not enough.

He smokes cigarettes all day, and takes great care of his clothes and his personal appearance. Every day he dyes his hair, and put fresh touches of rouge and powder on his haggard, furrowed face.

COMMODITIES CLAUSE IS MORE LIMITED

Washington, D. C., June 18.—The mandate of the Supreme Court of the U. S. in the case of the government against the anthracite coal roads, involving the constitutionality of the commodities clause of the railroad rate law was issued yesterday at the request of the Attorney-General.

It directs the U. S. HIGH SOCIETY'S AMUSEMENTS

Evidence in Gould Case Shows Character of One New York Gathering

New York, June 18.—The procession of servants and employees of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gould to the witness stand continued today. Since the first day early in the week when the plaintiff lost control of her feelings and wept during a merciless recital of unpleasant incidents Mrs. Gould has kept herself well in hand, merely expressing her disapproval of the testimony by a determined shake of her head or a smile.

After a dull day yesterday for the excitement-loving spectators who crowd the court room, when most of the time was occupied by the lawyers, the sensation came just before the close of the day's proceedings in the appearance of Herbert Schmidt, the Goulds' footman from October, 1904, to May, 1905. Schmidt told the story on the witness stand of the gathering of several well known New York women at which Mrs. Gould was present in the apartment of Mrs. George Underwood Kirkpatrick when, according to Schmidt, the hostess' arm was bitten, another woman received a black eye and he found Mrs. Gould in the cellar of the house weeping.

Mr. Nicoll, the defendant's counsel, said today that there was a possibility that he would reach his case during the day and call Mr. Gould to testify in his own behalf. Mr. Shearn, the plaintiff's counsel, promised a severe cross-examination of Mr. Gould if this should happen.

New York, June 18.—Harry J. Veitch, of Des Moines, Iowa, was called to the stand by the defence in the Gould case when court opened today. He was employed as a valet to Mrs. Gould from December, 1905, to September, 1906, the witness said, and during that time travelled with her to the West Indies and Europe and attended her at the St. Regis Hotel in this city and at Castle Gould.

"Did you ever assist her in preparing her toilet?" asked Mr. Nicoll.

"Only on one occasion," answered the witness.

Veitch testified that he had seen her under the influence of liquor several times, and said she drank a great deal on the trip to the West Indies on the Gould yacht, Niagara, mostly champagne and Manhattan cocktails. The witness described an incident at the Gould Castle in July or August, 1906, when, he said, Mrs. Gould drank champagne cocktails all day and became boisterous and threatened to "fire everybody in the place."

"She asked me to tie her slippers and when I started to do it she kicked them off in the air," said the former valet. "She was staggering about then but ordered me to get her two more cocktails," continued Veitch, "and later in the evening I passed her room and the door was open. She was lying on the bed fully dressed and sound asleep, snoring loudly."

Veitch said he was at Blue Gap Farm with Mrs. Gould in September, 1906, and saw her intoxicated there. "Mrs. Gould discharged you because you had stolen some jewelry and silverware from her, didn't she?" asked Mr. Shearn.

Veitch denied that she discharged him for this reason. The witness repeated a statement that Mrs. Gould had ordered him to throw a table set with dishes, into the hall from her apartment at the St. Regis. Mrs. Gould eyed the witness sharply all the time he was testifying. She was angered by his testimony.

Henry H. Knowles, an insurance agent, testified that he had known the Goulds since 1904 and dined at Castle Gould and been a guest on the yacht Niagara. He testified that the first time he had observed Mrs. Gould's conduct when she had been drinking was a dinner at the St. Regis in 1905.

YOUTHFUL THIEVES

Small Girls and Boy in Vancouver Found to Have Stolen Articles From Shops

Vancouver, June 17.—Denouement came yesterday in the police puzzle of the numerous shop-lifting reports which have reached headquarters for several months past, when O. B. Allen, the jeweler, caught four young folks, three girls and a very small boy, trying to get away with some of his jewelry stock. He succeeded in locking his doors on the three small girls but the midget boy was too fleet of foot for him and suddenly dashed away and succeeded in escaping for the time being.

As soon as he was sure the three young girls could not leave the store, Mr. Allen telephoned the police, and the girls were taken to the station. There they stoutly denied stealing the goods, despite the fact that they were found on them. The officers went with them to their homes and found enough stolen goods to stock a small store. Several bracelets, pins and other jewelry were stolen out of Mr. Allen's store, and all of the articles of the girls. A search of their homes resulted in the location of numerous pairs of new shoes, slippers, babies' clothes, dolls, cheap salt and pepper cellars, silk, playing cards and other jewelry. The goods have been identified as stolen out of the Hudson's Bay, Spencer and Gordon-Drysdale department stores.

Yesterday afternoon the quartet entered Mr. Allen's jewelry store and one of the girls asked to be shown some bracelets. Mr. Allen did not like their appearance and watched them warily. While the girl was looking at the bracelets, the boy, who is only five years old, stealthily lifted articles after article and slipped them to one of the other girls. Although the youngster showed considerable skill in larceny, the quickness of his hands did not deceive Mr. Allen once, and he charged the four with stealing. Thereupon the little boy bolted and got away. Then Mr. Allen locked his doors and notified the police.

The girl to whom the youngster slipped the stolen articles was well prepared for receiving them. She wore a three-quarter coat, and on one side the lining was torn and pinned at the bottom. Into this the stolen goods had been stored. There were numerous other articles there besides those which Mr. Allen missed.

Two of the girls each are 12 years old, another girl is seven and the little boy, who seemed to be the leader, is only five. The children were decidedly dirty and poorly clothed, and the investigation was through Dickens' Oliver Twist story would be brought out. But there was no Fagin character connected. Of this the police are certain.

Several other small boys and girls are said to be implicated in the numerous thefts, and the police are working hard today trying to recover all of the stolen property. Thus far they have recovered about $60 worth. None of the stolen articles, so far as the police have learned, were ever disposed of by the young thieves who it is believed stole with no intention of selling them but merely because they were attracted by them. Some of the articles, such as the pins, were very cheap, but brilliant in color. Other articles were expensive, such as a $16 solid gold bracelet.

TRIBUTES ARE PAID TO WRIGHT BROTHERS

Dayton, Ohio, June 18.—The nation, the state, and the city in which they live, today paid tribute to Wilbur and Orville Wright, the aviators. Standing on a platform not far from their unpretentious little aeroplane factory and almost within sight of a field where they first struggled with the problem of aerial navigation, General James Allen, chief signal officer of the army, assigned by Secretary of War Dickinson for the purpose, presented to the Wright brothers the gold medals authorized by Act of Congress.

At the same time were given them a diamond studded medal bearing the official seal of the State of Ohio and another from Dayton, their home city. The state medal was presented by Governor Harmon, of Ohio; the local medal by Mayor B. Burkhardt, of Dayton. After the presentation ceremony the crowds witnessed a parade of floats depicting the development of locomotion in America.

This was headed by an Indian runner and after the various stages from the oxcart to the automobile had been shown the parade was concluded by an aeroplane, with the suggestion that the next route for speeding would be among the clouds.

JUDGMENT AGAINST WHITE PASS ROAD

Railway Commission Gives Decision in Favor of Dawson Board of Trade Today

Ottawa, June 18.—The Railway Commission today gave judgment in the case of the Dawson City Board of Trade against the White Pass and Yukon railway in regard to rates. It was contended by the railway people that because the road is not entirely in Canadian territory the board had no jurisdiction, but the chairman points out that it is apparent from the traffic agreement and the mode of operation that a through route exists between Skagway and Dawson and notes by the amendments to the Railway Act passed at the last session of Parliament that the Board's provisions are extended to any railway company incorporated elsewhere than in Canada owning, controlling, operating or running trains from any point in the United States to any point in Canada.

The Board could not at present order the reduction in rates asked by the Dawson City Board of Trade but orders the various companies which co-operate with the White Pass and Yukon railway to become parties to future percentages to file tariffs with the Board by July 18; companies to show all earnings as between regular companies.

THIS IS THE PENALTY FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Buffalo, N. Y., June 18.—Samuel W. Hoffelms, a back-tax clerk in the office of the county treasurer, was today sentenced to not less than two years and six months nor more than five years in Auburn Prison on an indictment charging him with the theft of $300 on April 20th last. He pleaded guilty.

Hoffelms, with James C. Weed, cashier in the county treasurer's office, was arrested recently in connection with an alleged shortage in the accounts of the county treasurer's office amounting to $36,000. Weed, who was also indicted, was to have been placed on trial today but owing to illness his case was not moved.

VICTORIA AND OSAKA LINE

First Steamers to Sail From Japan Will Not Call Here

LOCAL AGENTS TO BE APPOINTED

Vessels of New Transpacific Company to Have Passenger Accommodation

R. P. Rithet & Co. will be appointed agents for the new transpacific steamship service being established by the Osaka Shosen Kaisha. R. Pukao, financial agent of the Japanese Steamship company, and E. Orrett, traffic manager of the line, are in the city making arrangements for the local agency. They are guests at the Empress hotel. Speaking to the Colonist reporter yesterday Mr. Pukao stated that while the first steamer of the new line, the Tacoma Maru and Fitzpatrick, a British steamer chartered because the Seattle Maru cannot be got ready in time, will not call at this port, it is the intention of the company to include Victoria in its schedule. Until the steamers start their regular calls at Victoria, the freight being absorbed in the through rates. The service, said Mr. Pukao, will be inaugurated with the sailing of the Tacoma Maru from Hongkong on July 1st, the ship being due at Tacoma on August 2nd. Four weeks later the steamer Fitzpatrick will sail, and the Seattle Maru, now being completed, four weeks later. The service will be maintained four weeks, and the six steamers for the line are ready. The Chicago Maru, the third of the Osaka fleet will be launched in July and the other three vessels, the Panama Maru, Mexico Maru and Canada Maru will be completed within three or four months.

Although primarily intended as freight steamers the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liners will have limited passenger accommodation, having berths for six saloon and 200 steerage. They will be in command of Japanese shipmasters and have full crews of Japanese engineers and seamen.

The new line will not join the Pacific conference, but will maintain the freight rates in force arranged by the companies included in the Pacific conference. It is improbable that any extraordinary competition will arise, a rate war being very unlikely.

The Osaka Shosen Kaisha is one of Japan's largest steamship concerns, second only to the Nippon Yusen Kaisha. It has 117 steamships in all, mostly engaged in coasting services in the Orient. The company was organized in 1884 by an amalgamation of the competing steamship lines plying to the big Japanese port. In 1884 one hundred steamships were combined under the name of the Osaka Merchantman's Company. The ships were mostly old and their engines strained by the efforts during competition and it was necessary to replace most of them with new vessels. Three years after the formation of the company it petitioned the government for assistance and a subsidy of $25,000 a year was given in 1888 for improvement of the fleet. Mail was carried gratis, but subsequently the Japanese government granted a mail subsidy of $10,000 for eight years; this and the subsidy was paid. When the war began the Chinese government's capital was nearly trebled and thirty vessels were used as transports. With the close of the war a new subsidized line was opened to Formosa, the capital being again doubled, while in 1907 it was doubled again, going from half a million at its inception to $5,500,000. The service on the Yanktze-kiang was opened in that year, and things went swimmingly until the decline of business in 1908 when the capital was reduced to half. In 1909 a South China service was established and the Kloristu Steamship Company's coasting service bought, the capital again raised to its former figure. In 1901 the Iyo Steamship Company was bought and a service to Korea started, debentures to the value of half a million dollars being issued to meet the additional expense. When the war began with Russia the company had seventy-five steamers of 78,500 tons, and many of these were taken for military service, foreign steamers being chartered to replace them and eleven new vessels were purchased, three new lines to Korea and North China being opened. The Tosa steamship line was purchased after the war, and then it was decided to go further afield with the result that the trans-Pacific service has been organized, debentures being issued and special loans raised to pay for the building of six steamers, three being constructed at the Kawasaki yards at Kobe and three at the Mitsui Bishi yards at Nagasaki.

One feature of the new service will be the carrying of cadets chosen from the Commercial Navigation school at the expense of the company to train them for officers and engineers.

Deckload of Stranded Lumber Carrier Being Removed to Float Vessel

Work was begun yesterday to lighten the British bark Puritan, which grounded in the Fraser river when being towed to sea by the tug Pioneer, with a cargo of 1,500,000 feet of lumber for Melbourne from Millside. It is stated that the deck load, or a good portion of it, will be removed. The Puritan was wrecked shoreward by the swift current and swung broadside to the shore, where she remains fast. It is expected she will float when lightened.

FEWER SHIPS WENT THROUGH SUEZ CANAL

Nearly Two-thirds of Total Number of Steamers Using Waterway Were British

The annual meeting of the Suez Canal company was held at Paris a few days ago. The report stated that, in spite of the appreciable decrease in revenue during 1908, it is proposed to maintain the dividend at last year's figure of £5 12s 6d. The falling off in the revenue last year as compared with 1907 amounted to £345,102. The expenditure last year amounted to £50,815 more than in the previous year. This was largely due to the cost of the upkeep of the canal, such as dredging at the station of Lake Timsah and the restoration of the eastern jetty.

Prince Auguste D'Arrenberg, president of the company, in the course of his comments on the year's working, stated:

In 1908 3,795 ships, showing a net tonnage of 13,633,283 tons, passed through the canal. Consequently, compared with 1907 there is a diminution of 472 ships and 1,095,161 tons. The average volume of the ships has been of 3,452 tons in 1907 and 3,592 tons in 1908. The increasing of the average tonnage seen in succeeding years has been remarkably manifested. The average time of the journey of the ships has been 17 hours 24 minutes, the most favorable average in the year realized since the opening of the canal. A branch society of the Standard Oil Company is negotiating with us just now in order to let a piece of ground at Port Said. They want to build a big warehouse for petroleum essence, and a reservoir, and for the manufacture of barrels for the works. We think it would be very advantageous for us to accept their offer.

The following table shows the number of ships and the tonnage of various nations using the canal in 1908:

Nationality	No. of Ships	Net Tonnage
English	2,233	8,303,802
German	584	2,310,507
French	242	815,150
Dutch	246	743,980
Japanese	59	286,456
Russian	84	251,820
Italian	83	189,543
Danish	34	89,765
Spanish	27	77,734
Norwegian	22	61,991
Russian-Hungarian	16	49,828
Turkish	30	34,601
American	8	17,500

GEORGIA MAY GO ON ALASKA RUN

McKenzie Brothers Are Said to Have Chartered Canadian-Mexican Liner

The British steamer Georgia, of the Canadian-Mexican line, has been chartered by McKenzie Bros. to take the place of the Norwegian steamer Transit on the run from British Columbia to Seattle. The Georgia will be a member of a number of weekly Canadian liners for a cruise in the north.

According to advices from Vancouver the Georgia will begin service at once. She recently finished her last voyage in the Canadian-Mexican service. Just what later disposition will be made of the steamer is not known. The Georgia line, which has been at Vancouver discharging sugar for the refinery, has left for Nanaimo for coal and, after bunkering, will proceed to Seattle and thence to this port. She will leave Tacoma Monday for the west coast direct, having received orders within the last day or two which entirely changes her schedule. She will proceed in ballast to the west coast, where she is needed for the coasting trade.

The fact that the Kosmos liner Salis is following closely in the wake of the Georgia is probably responsible for the change of orders. The Salis will go to the Sound soon from San Francisco and will load general cargo at Tacoma for the west coast and Hamburg. The Salis will proceed down the coast without stopping at San Francisco.

The Salis is out from Hamburg since February, en route to the North Pacific. She has been in the coast service along the west coast of South Africa.

THE BLUE RIBBON

WHAT THE DERBY IS to the racing world! What the MARATHON is to the athlete! such is "CRAIGDARROCH" to the man who desires an absolutely perfect site for his residence or the sound investment of his money!! A perfect residential site must possess—Scenic Grandeur—Accessibility—Fertile Soil—Reasonable Privacy—and, above all—Fresh Air, in liberal but not boisterous supply. "CRAIGDARROCH" has these essentials, in perfection. It commands, absolutely, a panorama of scenic grandeur which it would be difficult to equal in any part of the wide world; its accessibility is remarkable, no other residential site possessing the other attributes mentioned, is in such close proximity to a well-equipped capital city and seaport; its soil is highly productive; it has an unlimited, ever-moving supply of the purest and most invigorating atmosphere—the pure air of the Pacific, uncontaminated and undiluted; it was the domain of a merchant prince, who saw to it, that his residence and demesne had the immense advantage of privacy from slatternly side street and shack. ALL these IMMENSE ADVANTAGES make "CRAIGDARROCH" the "Blue Ribbon" of the residential real estate world—furthermore, they represent a gilt-edged and most profitable investment to the man who has the wisdom to select and purchase his lots now; whilst the prices are considerably under their real value, in order to promptly close up this estate. Plans, particulars and prices of lots are now in the hands of all Victoria Real Estate Agents or in the Office on the Estate "Craigdarroch," Fort Street and Rockland Avenue, Victoria, B. C. CURTAINMENT OF ONE-THIRD

Unfavorable Weather Occasions Anxiety Among Local Growers of Small Fruit

Growers in the fruit producing district of Victoria and neighborhood are daily becoming more concerned for the outcome of the strawberry crop. The present dry, warm weather, following the late frosts which nipped the tender blossoms, is still further affecting the crop and with the lack of rain the fruit, particularly on the dry sandy locations, is shrivelling up. One of the oldest and best informed of the Gordon Head growers stated yesterday that from best information it is a practical certainty that this year's crop has been to date, cut one-third, and unless needed rains are received at once the loss will be greater. Some idea of the effect of the unfavorable weather conditions which have prevailed this spring can be gained from the fact that whereas last year, on June 19, the top notch in daily receipts was reached, some 1,400 crates, and the daily average at this time of year was from 600 to 700 crates, this year the heaviest daily arrival were but 150 crates on Thursday. It is expected that arrivals will increase from now on but the shipments are being greatly delayed by the lack of rain. Immediate moisture would work wonders with much of the crop as it would swell out the fruit which is suffering from the warm weather. Growers state that the present season has been the most unfavorable one for strawberries on record in the past 12 years.

The reduction in receipts is having the result of keeping up prices. Local grown strawberries are now retailing at 15 cents per pound which is considered a good price and gives the grower a good return. With the reduction in the crop it is not expected that island berries will do better than supply the local and Vancouver markets and that shipments to the prairie section, whence many inquiries are being received, will not be possible except perhaps in limited quantities. Growers state that the unfavorable weather has also affected the prune crop but estimates of the loss occasioned are difficult to arrive at as yet.

The first shipments of local cherries are now coming on this market in limited quantities. The fruit is somewhat on the small side and not fully ripened, but it is expected that subsequent shipments will materially improve. The fruit is retailing at 10 cents per pound for local grown and from 15 cents to 20 cents for imported.

Probably the acme of quality, size and flavor is shown by the shipments of Mayne Island tomatoes which are now coming on this market. Dealers state that this year's receipts surpass those of any previous year, while in the packing nothing is to be desired. The tomatoes are retailing at from 25 cents to 30 cents per pound.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

(Furnished by F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
New York, June 18.—The tone of the market was very much improved today, the selling pressure during yesterday's session having subsided and there seemed to be a disposition among room traders to repaid part of the losses which were liquidated upon the decline. Sentiment was somewhat mixed but in good quarters it is still felt that higher prices are not unlikely in the very near future, although at present trading is likely to be held in check until the fear of higher money rates subsides. Trade is comparatively dull on recovery but the tone of the market taken as a whole is very much improved.

Cured her Father's Drunkenness by a Simple Remedy.

Saves her father from a drunkard's grave. Free sample of Samaria Tonic. Prescription checks his drinking and leads to complete cure.

"I seemed hopeless to keep father from drinking, and we all felt the disgrace. When things were at their worst, a friend advised me to try Samaria. I saw that you offered a free sample treatment and that the remedy was tasteless and could be given secretly. I determined to try it, and, have been glad every day since. The full treatment, which I gave him in his tea, cured him, and I am pleased to say he never touches whiskey now. How glad I am that I wrote you and how happy we all are together. Father says that he could never have stopped drinking of his own accord."
